Downtown Store Damaged in Auto Accident Here

Two parking meters were damaged and a large display window in a downtown store was broken early this morning when a car went out of control between Fourth and Fifth streets on Donner Ave., Monessen police reported.

According to reports, a car operated by Louis Yulias, of Craven Hill, R. D. 1, Chrleroi, was pulling out of a parking space when the driver lost control. The car crashed into a parked truck belonging to Michael Pagonis, of 426 Park Way, careened off the truck and went up over the sidewalk, knocking down two parking meters in its path.

Fragments from the smashed meters flew through a large display window of Falbo's store at 469 Donner Ave. The fragments also damaged shoes and display stands inside the window.

Damage was not estimated.

The accident occurred at 12:15 a. m.

Highway Probe Is Explained

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Highways Department is investigating the use of state road-building materials and equipment to construct private driveways in its inquiry into operations which resulted in suspension of three supervisory employes.

John R. Raymond Rezzolla, chief counsel for the department, said today at Gov. George M. Leader's news conference that his investigation revealed "excess" road materials was left on private property. He said there was also evidence that such material was converted into private driveways in some instances.

Rezzolla attended the news conference to explain the case at Gov. Leader's request. The department has suspended John Lapping, Waynesburg engineer; C. Chesney Wood, also Waynesburg, Greene County maintenance superintendent, and Henry Zermani, Moongahela, assistant maintenance superintendent in Washington County.

Bad Judgement

The governor said the three employes were suspended for "administrative bad judgement," involving the use of rented equipment for highway projects when department equipment should have been utilized.

The investigation has so far disclosed only a "relatively small amount" of highway building material used for private construction, Leader said.

Rezzolla put the amount up to the present at "between $2,000 and $3,000."

The alleged irregularities occurred in District 12, which includes Washington, Greene, Fayette and Westmoreland counties. Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman said that he was "at a loss" to understand why the three men were suspended.

"I don't understand it at all. I do not think there is any reason at all for their suspension," Furman said when notified of the case Tuesday.

Enough Laxity

Asked to comment on Furman's statement, the governor said:

"There is certainly enough administrative laxity and bad judgement to warrant their suspension. It brings me no great satisfaction to find that the Highways Department, despite strenuous efforts by Secretary Joseph J. Lawler to keep it clean and uncorruptible, has found it necessary to suspend people. There are no favored and no unfavored counties. We expect good clean administration in every county in Pennsylvania. Wherever irregularities are uncovered we will deal with them justly, fairly and adequately."

Asked whether Furman had tried to intervene in behalf of the three suspended employes, Leader said, at first that any commnt in that direction would have to come from Furman, then he said: "He did not contact me."

Food Distribution

Surplus food will be distributed to all eligible persons from 1 to 3 p. m. next Wednesday at the C.I.O. Building at Eighth St. and Donner Ave., Monessen, it was announced today by George Kutska, chairman.

Bloom Denies He's Senate Candidate

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Republican state Chairman George I. Bloom said Wednesday he would not be a candidate for office in the 1958 elections.

"I am not a candidate, nor will I be a candidate. I am only interested in building up the Republican Party in Pennsylvania," he said.

Bloom had been mentioned as a candidate fot the U.S. Senate seat which is expected to be vacated by Edward Martin.

In a speech to the Federation of Women's Clubs, Bloom predicted a November victory for John Drew, GOP mayoralty candidate over Mayor David Lawrence.

"Dave Lawrence is like the pitcher that went to the well once too often. The people of Pittsburgh are demanding new faces and new ideas, and John Drew . . bhwa.sa ideas, and John Drew . . . has what the people want," Bloom said.

Six Highways Department employes, including former county road superintendents are under suspension on charges of engaging in an alleged cinder fraud and "mismaagement."

West will receive $8,163 annually in the new post. He formerly was a special agent with the state Justice Department. He also served in the Secret Service and Central Intelligence Agency.

Railways Offer Called Ridiculous

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A union negotiator said today Pittsburgh Railways has made a ridiculous offer to its 2,200 trolley and bus operators but refused to disclose the terms of the proposal.

Gilbert Teitel, business represenative for Division 85 of the Street, Electric Railways and Motor Coach Employes union, said the offer will be presented to a membership meeting next week. But he said the offer, first since contract negotiations opened July 9, "was a ridiculous proposal."

Company representatives submitted the contract offer to union negotiators Wednesday afternoon. The contract deadline is Aug. 31. The union originally listed 22 demands, including wage increases totaling 36 cents over a two year period.

Monessen Man Is Injured in Mishap

Martin Brna, 45, of 29 Washington Dr., Monessen, is in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital today suffering from injuries received yesterday afternoon in an auto accident, it was reported today.

Hospital attendants said Brna received several broken ribs, bruises of the left knee and lacerations of the left wrist. His condition is "fair," the report said.

State and district police said they had no report of the mishap.

20 Marines Hurt As Trucks in Convoy Overturn

BELHAVEN, N.C. (UP)— Two trucks in a Marine convoy on its way to fight a big forest fire overturned in separate accidents today, injuring 20 men.

Eighteen Marines were injured when a truck carrying 25 men overturned in a ditch near here. They were taken to a hospital here.

Another wreck involving a truck in the same Marine Corps convoy from Camp Lejeune, N.C., turned over 30 miles east of here. Two men were injured in this accident.

This convoy was moving slowly along a foggy highway toward an area where a forest fire has burned over 75,000 acres of swamp and forest land in the past two weeks.

Police said the brakes locked on the first truck that overturned.

The state highway patrol blocked U.S. Highway 264 after the accidents because of hazardous driving conditions and to permit the truck convoys to get through. Patrolmen said visibility was reduced because of fog, smoke and mist.

Grade Site for New Eagle Mine

Construction of a washing, cleaning and dumping plant to service the new Maple Creek coal mine in New Eagle may begin within a month.

For the past three months, workers have cleared and graded a five acre site, much of which was covered with hundreds of poplar trees 50 to 60 feet high.

Storm sewers have already been installed to make way for the U. S. Steel Corporation mine.

A rivel tipple at the site is planned for late in 1958 with actual coal production to start sometime thereafter.

Council Orders 'Crackdown' On Violators

City Council yesterday ordered the Police Department to "crack down" immediately on juveniles who violate the 10 p. m. curfew law.

In ordering the strict enforcement, Council said it has received too many complaints about children under 16 years of age who roam the streets long after curfew — "and even after midnight."

John Kotch, Jr., who presided at the meeting in the absence f vacationing Mayor Hugo J. Parente, and Councilman John Molnar both called for the police to "break up these gangs of juveniles who loaf in front of stores, on corners and elsewhere and create disturbances."

Councilman David Victoria said "parents as much as their children are to blame. Some parents don't seem to care if their kids run around the streets past midnight."

He emphasized that parents should be "liable to prosecution as much as children for violating the curfew."

Curfew violators are liable to fines and other penalties.

Report Vandalism

Council took action on the issue after receiving a letter from the Monessen School District which asked for the City's cooperation in enforcing the curfew. The district's letter said much of the vandalism occurring on school property is caused by children after 10 o'clock at night.

In other business, Council adopted two ordinances after hearing third and final readings. One ordinance gave final approval for the removal of streetcar rails on Donner Ave. and the other authorized the state Highways Department to advertise for bids for the complete resurfacing of Donner Ave from Oneida St. to 12th St. and Schoonmaker Ave.

Council was informed that the Highways Department hopes to begin work "as soon as possible" on resurfacing 1.08 miles of Donner Ave. with 2½-inches of blacktop. The state took over the maintenance of the street earlier this year.

Health Officer Albert Marchione was authorized to take steps toward razing a partially burned building at 1248 Morgan Ave., which Marchione claims is a health and safety menace.

Sent Correspondence

Marchione told Council that he has sent "correspondence after correspondence" to the two out-of-town owners of the property but his letters have been ignored. In the last letter, he said he informed them if they weren't present at yesterday's Council meeting he would ask for the condemnation proceedings. They were not present.

Council denied a request from several residents on Athalia Ave. that nearby Giba Alley be vacated. Assistant City Engineer Richard Belan said that closing this alley would "shut off outlets for accessible lots" in the vicinity.

Residents o. Marion Ave. between Rostraver St. and Cross Ave submitted a written petition protesting the using of Marion Ave. "as a street for car driving lessons." The residents complained their "property is being endangered by these practice drivers."

City Asks Delay In Hearing on Fired Policeman

Following a decision made at yesterday's meeting of City Council, City Solicitor Frank P. Ezerski, Jr., today sent a petition to Westmoreland County courts requesting a postponement of the case involving the City of Monessen and Philip Panepinto, who was fired as a policeman in July.

The City is requesting the delay on the grounds that "several" of its witnesses are on vacation and will not be available for the hearing which has been scheduled for next Thursday.

Panepinto, who was dismissed from the police force after a hearing before City Council, appealed his ouster to the courts last Friday.

In his appeal, Panepinto claims he "has suffered an injustice" and asks that he be reinstated as a member of the force.

A 10-year veteran on the force, Panepinto was discharged on the recommendation of Mayor Hugo J. Parente, who charged Panepinto with failure to make hourly calls to police headquarters and "sleeping on duty."

Panepinto, at the hearing, made a partial denial of the first charge and a complete denial of the second charge.

Still 'Good Will' Between Monessen, Rostraver Schools

Apparently a "good will" policy still exists between the Monessen and Rostraver school districts despite a dispute over students in the annexed area near City Park.

The two school districts have worked out a plan to accomodate "six or seven" Rostraver pupils who want to attend classes in the Monessen Vocational auto shop.

Under the new arrangement, these students will take their academic studies at Rostraver in the morning, then attend vocational classes at Monessen in the afternoon. Rostraver will pay a half-tuition.

In the past, Rostraver students have attended a full day at Monessen with the township school district paying a full tuition.

The Monessen and Rostraver school districts are currently locked in a legal dispute over students in the annexed area. So far Rostraver has successfully blocked attempts by Monessen to secure these pupils even though they now reside in the city.

City Fire Department Record 'Excellent' -- Economy League

"The Monessen Fire Department has an excellent record in fire defense," Russell Jones, of the Pennsylvania Economy League, reported to members of City Council yesterday.

Jones made his report after conducting a survey of the department at the request of City Council on the recommendation of Director of Public Safety John Kotch, Jr.

The survey included the department's facilities, equipment and efficiency of service.

Jones said the department is "well equipped, well housed and reportedly well trained."

He added that every step should be taken to make the department "a more cohesive and unified organization," thereby adding to its standing.

In one of his recommendations, Jones said that the City's two Companies — Downtown and Hilltop — each should have a deputy chief reporting to Fire Chief W. Roy McShaffrey. Each company's program outside the responsibility of fire defense, however, would be its own.

He said that in the matter of fire defense, the policy of the department would apply to both companies.

"The City should be guided in all matters pertaining to fire-fighting and fire defense by the fire chief," he recommended.

Other recommendations included:

"All paid employes of the department should be subject to civil service regulations."

"Because of the possibility of the growth of the city and its environs, the City of Monessen should adopt a fire prevention code.

"A fire inspection report should be used.

"Because a fire alarm system is an essential element of fire defense, it is necessary for the city to have a reliable reporting system. It (the city) is considering the advisability of installing a system. Before doing so, it should consider the merits of various methods such as telegraph, private telephone, public telephone and radio."

He also suggested that a fireman be on duty at the Hilltop Station between 12 and 8 a. m.

Jones furnished the City with copies of his 46-page report.

Council said it will make a thorough study of the report and consider the PEL's recommendations.

New Political Group Organized in County

A rally to raise over $10,000 to promote the political campaigns of three Democratic judge candidates in Westmoreland County in the November general election is being planned by the newly organized Independent Citizens Committee of Westmoreland County.

The new group was organized Tuesday at a meeting held in Greensburg. It is now organizing an extensive campaign to enlist "non-professionals" interested in the politics of the county, according to an announcement by J. H. Millstein, a Jeannette businessman, and Paul A. Del Vitto, a Penn Twp. squire, co-chairmen.

The organization's primary aim, they said, is to promote the campaigns of Judge Edward G. Bauer, District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco and David H. Weiss, of Monessen, who is to be sworn in as a judge tomorrow.

The three candidates attended a luncheon in their honor Tuesday, along with Judge John M. O'Connell, of Westmoreland County, and Judge Samuel Weiss, of Allegheny County.

The Allegheny County jurist will act as toastmaster for a banquet which will be one of the highlights of the campaign.

The affair will take place at Baldoc Hills Country Club near Irwin on Sept. 17.

The committee is anticipating a crowd of 500 persons at $25 a plate.

Three Monessen men, Irwin Sanes, Bernard Shire and Herman Alberts, are members of the ticket committee, as is Joseph Vizza, of North Belle Vernon.

Ike Defends Foreign Aid Bill

'Concerned' Over Any Big Cuts

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Appropriations Committee today ignored President Eisenhower's pleas and voted to cut his foreign aid program $809,650,000. The appropriation measure was scheduled to go before the House for a vote on passage later today.

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that if cuts made in his foreign aid program by a House Appropriations subcommittee are upheld by Congress, "the best interests of the United States and the free world" might be seriously hampered.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower was "gravely concerned" by the subcommittee cuts and hoped that final action by Congress would restore the foreign aid program to the $3,367,000,000 total in the mutual security authorization bill he signed Wednesday.

The subcommittee, reporting out a follow-up bill to provide actual cash for the aid program, reduced the total to $2,525,000,000.

To back up his feelings in the matter, the President sent his full congressional liaison staff to Capitol Hill this morning in an effort to repair what he considered to be severe damage to the aid bill.

If he loses the fight now, he has threatened to call Congress back into special session this fall to try again.

Eisenhower touched off what may become the hottest political fight of his administration Wednesday with his special session warning.

Less than four hours later the appropriations subcommittee, informed of his action, slashed 812 million dollars from the program Eisenhower protested already has been hobbled by too-steep cuts.

The measure was to go before the full 50 - man appropriations committee today. Speaker Sam Rayburn announced the House itself would take up the appropriations bill immediately and pass it before nightfall.

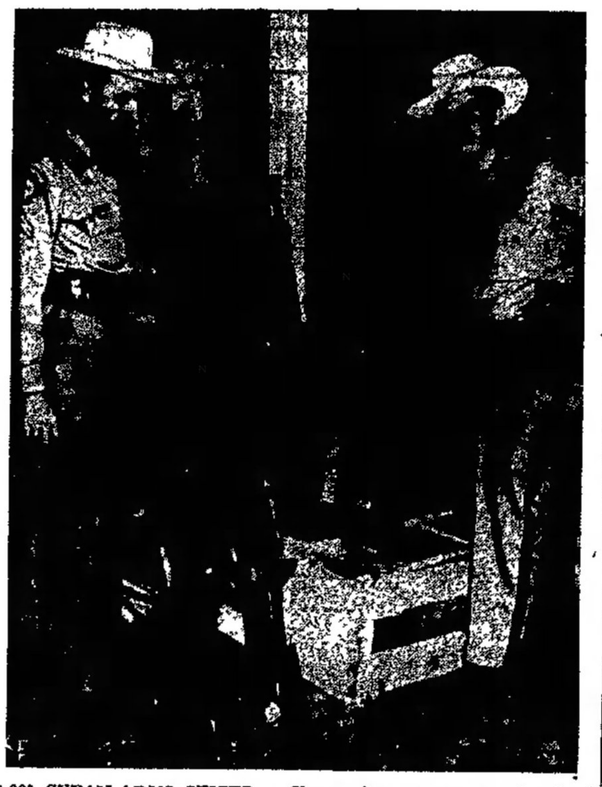
Makes Big Cut

The subcommittee recommended a total foreign aid appropriation this year of $2,525,000,000 — a whacking $1,339,000,000 below the President's "bare-bone" request for $3,864,000,000, and 842 million dollars below the $3,367,000,000 he agreed reluctantly to accept.

The stinging rebuff was administered not long after Eisenhower called an almost - unprecedented special news conference to announce he is ready to call a special session of Congress if necessary to get what he considers adequate aid funds.

Calling the aid program the "cheapest money we spend" for the nation's security, the President told newsmen he does not think the country "is going to see it crumble through any false economy, or because it just has no local political impact."

He disclosed he had just signed the compromise $3,367,000,000 aid "authorization" bill, which puts a ceiling on funds for the 12 months that began July 1, with the "prayerful hope" it would be enough to "sustain the essential interests of the United States in the free world."



$50,000 CUBAN ARMS SEIZED — Two cubans, one a naturalized American and the other a former official under ousted Cuban President Carlos Prio Socarras, are under arrest in Miami, Fla., following seizure of a $50,000 arms cache in the naturalized American's home. He is Gil de Gibaja, a Miami hairdresser. His cousin, Alfredo Gonzalez, also arrested, is identified as a former secretary of the interior and secretary of house of representatives in Cuba.

Fayette County Zoning Ordinance in Effect

A zoning ordinance requiring builders to obtain permits is now in effect in Fayette County.

Edward Heiselberg, director of planning for the county, said the zoning regulations went into effect on June 10.

Under the new ordinance, any person, firm or corporation starting construction or remodeling of a building or structure, or changing the use of land in Fayette County, must first obtain a zoning certificate from the county zoning office in the Bortz Law Building, 92 East Main St., Uniontown.

There is only one exception to that ordinance, Heiselberg said. At the present time, the city of Connellsville has its own zoning ordinance, which takes perference over the county law.

In the near future, the city of Uniontown and borough of Perryopolis will probably adopt zoning ordinances, Heiselberg said. At that time, the county-wide interim zoning ordinance will no longer be applicable to those communities.

The county ordinance requires minimum setbacks from roads, and in the case of residences, requires setbacks from side lot lines.

It maps prime industrial districts in various sections of the county to encourage industrial development. It attempts to separate residential, business, and industrial uses, so that they will not become a nuisance to one another.

It requires special hearings for certain new uses which may be objectionable such as junkyards, auto wrecking yards, rifle ranges, and outdoor skating rinks.

Before building, be sure to obtain your zoning certificate, reminded Heiselberg.

Officials Take No Action Against Negro Family

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (UP) — The Bristol Twp. Board of Commissioners has rejected the plea of angry residents to "take action" against the first Negro family to move into this previously all-white community.

After a two hour discussion Wednesday night, Township Solicitor William J. Carlin said there was no action the board could take against William Myers Jr.

"This body is required to enforce the laws of the state and the constitution," Carlin said. "The people who have moved in are completely within their rights. This board can take no action."

While the commissioners were meeting another crowd gathered in front of the police-guarded home occupied Tuesday by Myers his wife and their three children. Two persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct, but there was no violence. Two windows had been broken in Myers' home Tuesday night when stones were thrown during the first demonstration.

Phillip Hunter, a Negro and former neighbor of Myers, was surrounded when he attempted to visit Myers Wednesday night. There was no violence and he left within a few minutes without seeing Myers.

Minister Charges Reds Helped to Break Up Meeting

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—A church leader today charged that Communist hecklers and Lutheran seminary students broke up a meeting called to protest the appearance of Lutheran churchmen from Iron Curtain countries at the Third Assembly of the Lutheran World Federation.

'I've never had an experience like the one in Minneapolis last night," Dr. Carl McIntire, Collingswood, N.J., said "and I've spoken all over the world and been in 61 countries."

McIntire, president of the International Council of Christian Churches, said he addressed 1,000 people at a meeting held at the Lyceum Theater. Feeling ran so high, he said, that police escorted him home when the meeting was through.

The meeting was called to protest the appearance of Bishop Lajos Ordass, primate of the Hungarian Lutheran Church, and Lutheran church leaders from Poland, East Germany, and Yugoslavia, at the LWF"s 11-day conference beginning tonight.

Bishop Ordass, who will present the keynote address to delegates representing 50 million of the world's 70 million Lutherans, was described by McIntire as the "Communist-approved bishop of the Lutheran Church in Hungary."

Bishop Ordass spent nearly two years in prison on trumped-up charges under the Communist regime. He was later re-instated as primate of the church.

Two Children Burn to Death In Auto Fire

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Two children burned to death in the front seat of the family automobile Wednesday despite the desperate efforts of their father to free them from the flaming deathtrap.

William J Palmer, 34, of Upper [illegible] Darby, flung himself against the blazing automobile repeatedly in a futile effort to save his children, Patrick, 4, and Patricia, 3.

"My kids, they're in there. My God, they're dying," the frantic father screamed as he tore free from residents who tried to restrain him. He collapsed when told his children were dead, and was taken to a hospital in severe shock.

Police said Palmer parked his car and stepped into a store for only two minutes when the flames erupted. They said the children apparently lit their father's cigaret lighter, which he left on the front seat, and the seat covers ignited.

The auto was a roaring inferno within a minute, with flames leaping 20 feet into the air. The intense heat buckled the doors.

May Let Stars Skip Testimony

HOLLYWOOD, (UP) — Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker today was expected to rule on a motion which if granted would release a reluctant cast of about 100 movie stars from testifying about alleged sexual escapades at the criminal libel trial of Confidential Magazine.

The legal maneuver followed Wednesday's reading into the court records 14 lurid stories which introduced the names of 26 celebrities including such top stars as Frank Sinatra, Eddie Fisher, Mae West, June Allyson, Maureen O'Hara, Corinne Calvet, Jayne Mansfield and Robert Mitchum. The spicy yarns were from the pages of Confidential and its sister publication, Whisper Magazine.

Calls Recess

Walker called a recess in the trial today but set aside time to hear arguments on the defense motion to eliminate the charges of criminal libel and proceed only on a charge of conspiracy to print obscenities. If the judge rules in favor of the motion, the movieland personalities would be spared the possible embarrassment of testifying—thus turning the sensational trial into a third rate production.

Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley was confident that the motion would be granted. He said, "I wouldn't be making it if I didn't think that."

However, Asst. Atty. Gen. Clarence Linn, chief counsel for the prosecution, said he was equally positive that the judge would deny the motion.

The prosecution also has a motion pending before Walker. The motion if approved would bar scores of stars not involved in the alleged libelous articles cited from testifying.

Spirited Old Lady Hikes 200 Miles To Show Kinfolk

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UP)—While apathetic relatives rocked and lolled a spirited, old lady heeled-and-toed some 200 miles toward her Edgerton, Mo., home.

Mrs. Sarah Hollis, 79 years young, was aboard a bus today to complete the 450 mile trip to her home after having hitchhiked 200 miles from Manistique, Mich., when hse became fed up with her kinfolk.

Mrs. Hollis visited her Michigan relatives, but left when she couldn't take their ways any more.

"They just sat there rocking themselves to death; so, I decided to hitchhike home," she declared.

Mrs. Hollis gave lack of money as a reason for her walking.

Police picked up the elderly lady on the outskirts of Green Bay Tuesday night and the Salvation Army gave her shelter.

Mrs. Hollis declined offer of a local radio station to pay for a plane ticket home.

As she boarded the bus she discounted her home state's motto of "show me," by explaining that her "three spirits—Ethan, Nathan and the ancient Egyptian" were against plane travel.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—An Air Force doctor plans to spend 24 hours in a balloon 19 miles above earth to learn about the medical and technical problems of space flight.

The flight, to be made within the next two weeks, would set a new manned balloon flight altitude record of 100,000 feet. The present record is 96,000 feet.

Maj. David G. Simons, chief of the aero - medical field laboratory air development center at Alamogordo, N.M., will make the flight from an undisclosed spot in northern Minnesota.

23 Persons Killed in Soviet Plane Crash

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UP) —A Soviet passenger plane clipped the chimney of a power station while coming in for a landing today and spun into Copenhagen harbor, killing the 18 passengers and 5 crewmen aboard.

The plane, a twin-engined Ilyushin-14, was flying in from Riga, the former Latvian capital on the Baltic coast, for a landing at Kastrup Airport outside Copenhagen when the crash occurred.

A United Press reporter who saw the passports taken off three of the bodies laid out on the quayside said they were Russian diplomatic passports. The three were Alex Rosine, 37, Maria Bouchowa, 31, and Ninel Silina, 27. Silina was attached to the Soviet Embassy at Oslo.

Seamen's clothing was seen floating on the surface of the harbor after the crash and it was believed some of the passengers were Russian seamen.

There was some speculation at first—but no evidence—the passengers may have included Americans returning from the Moscow Youth Festival. A number of American youths have left Moscow recently by plane.

The plane sank in about 26 feet of water with only its tail sticking up above the surface. All available harbor craft converged on the area to seek possible survivors and look for bodies. Other craft searched a wider area of the harbor

Fickle Fanny Not Paying Off

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Fickle Fanny still isn't paying off.

The Commonwealth asked Allegheny County Court Wednesday to withhold distribution of the profits from the fabulous Clinton County gas well.

It acted on an "informer's claim" the well was located on state owned land.

Recently, the court brought an end to lengthy litigation over title to the well and ordered distribution of $1,200,000 in profits among several claimants.

The state, however, requested the money be withheld pending completion of a survey of the land on which Fickle Fanny was drilled.

Charles Cameron, of Red Bank, N.J., who filed the informer's claim under a 1956 law, stands to gain $50,000 if it is proved the land was owned by the Commonwealth. The Commonwealth then would receive the other profits.

State Auditor to Holdup Payment On TV Purchases

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Auditor General Charles C. Smith said today he had uncovered additional evidence to back up charges that the Welfare Department circumvented state law in obtaining television sets for mental institutions.

Smith said the Jacobs Safeway Corp., which contracted to sell the department between 31 and 356 television sets on a deferred payment basis over a four year period at a cost of about $77,000, operated outside its corporate charter.

The Republican state official also charged that the firm registered its address as Philadelphia when it actually operated out of Harrisburg; assigned the purchase contract to the Montgomery County Bank and Trust Co. although state contracts may not be assigned and billed an institution giving a Hatfield address.

Smith said the deal had "the stamp upon it of deliberate and calculated evasion of the law." He said his office would refuse to honor payments on the transaction.

Wife of Accused Killer, Watreas, To Seek Divorce

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — The wife of Joseph Watreas, 29, accused killer of storekeeper Alvin Partridge, 82, of Masontown, Pa., has announced she will seek a divorce.

"I believe he's innocent, but I want a divorce, innocent or guilty," Mrs. Helen Watreas said.

Watreas is expected to return here Friday. He was arrested in Miami, Fla., but has waived extradition.

Watreas was seized by the FBI last Friday in a Miami store where he was waiting for a woman companion, identified as Audrey Clark, 25, of Vanderbilt, Fayette County.

The FBI said Watreas and Miss Clark reportedly were married in Oakland, Md., the day Partridge was strangled in his grocery.

Miss Clark has returned from Miami.

Flaming Jet Crash Kills One

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (UP)—A pilot stayed with his flaming jet until it cleared an industrial district Wednesday night and then ejected himself before the plane dived into a home, killing one person and seriously injuring another.

Killed was Fred H. Kreger, 74. He and his 67-year-old semi-invalid wife, Retta, were caught in the house. Kreger was burned over 90 to 100 per cent of his body and died in a Dallas hospital this morning. Mrs. Kreger was burned on the upper half of her body and received chest injuries. She was in serious condition.

The pilot, on a two week training period, was 1st Lt. R. P. Stuart, 24, of Arlington, Tex. He received minor injuries when he parachuted onto Grand Prairie Airport, about four miles from where his plane crashed.

C. R. Bill Delayed In House

WASHINGTON (UP)—The civil rights bill languished in the House today with chances dim for quick action on the controversial measure.

Some congressmen believed that talk of a special session this fall on foreign aid might put off settlement of the civil rights stalemate until then.

The bill was lodged in the House Rules committee and apparently neither Republican or Democratic committee members could get enough support to push their rival plans through.

And they were getting no help from Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), an ardent foe of the measure. Smith said he would make no immediate move to call the committee to take up the bill.

Smith could delay action until next week. He said he hasn't decided would make no immediate move to call the committee to take up the bill.

Smith could delay action until next week. He said he hasn't decided what course to follow but was "not inclined" to do anything until some agreement is reached between backers of rival bills.

Republicans want to broaden the Senate - passed civil rights bill. Democrats are willing to accept the Senate version with a change only in the jury trial amendment to limit it to voting rights cases.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N. Y.) said he would recommend that, in the event of a special session on the foreign aid bill, the issue be taken up then if no "adequate" civil rights measure is worked out before Congress adjourns.

Other congressional news:

Drugs: The House Government Operations Committee urged that a grand jury investigate possible price fixing in the sale of drugs as well as polio vaccine to the government. The committee said a grand jury investigation of polio vaccine prices due to resume at Trenton, N.J., should be broadened to cover other drugs. The committee said there is evidence of possible anti-trust violations in their sale to federal and state governments.

Tariff: The fate of the administration's bill to increase the tariff on lead and zinc remained in doubt. The legislation, the first requested by any administration to up tariffs since the tariff-reducing reciprocal trade program went into effect in 1934, is before the House Ways & Means Committee. Backers report they have the votes to get the legislation through Congress before adjournment, but key Democrats on the committee hope to prevent it from being sent to the floor.

Not Successful in Pittsburgh Coal

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Water infusion of coal to reduce explosion causing dust has not yet proved successful in Pittsburgh bed coal, a Bureau of Mines spokesman reported today.

Researchers, conducting tests at an experimental coal mine near here, said the coal accepted the water, but the dust liberated during mining was not appreciably diminished.

"The test data indicate that water infusion of the Pittsburgh coal seam does not reduce the amount of fine dust produced during mining operations to the extent reported elsewhere," the researchers said.

Charleroian Leads In Archery Tourney

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y., (UP)—Jay Peake, an 18-year-old bridegroom of one month, was making an impressive showing today in his first National Field Archery Association tournament and appeared a good bet to win the overall championship.

Peake, an archery salesman from Charleroi, finished with a leading 886 in the hunters' round Wednesday to bring his aggregate total to 1,772. In taking top honors in both the field ground and hunters' classifications, Peake set new tournament records.

Following Peake in the instinctive expert division in aggregate scoring were Gordon Lock, San Francisco, with 1,707, and Roy Bill, San Diego, Calif., 1,690.

Bill finished second to Peake in the hunters' round with an 861 score while defending national champion Les Speakes was third with 89.

Another newcomer to the archery scene 14-year-old Thomas Lee Rice of San Francisco, was making a shambles of the instinctive intermediate boys class. His 781 in the hunters' Wednesday gave him a 1,523 aggregate—250 more than any of his rivals.

Former champions Frances Lozon of Marine City, Mich., and Ann Corby, Boomton, N. J., were involved in a three-way battle with Merle Weimer of Marlington, W. Va., for the instinctive women's class crown.

Miss Weimer took the hunters round with a 664 score to make aggregate of 1,272, just four points less than Miss Lozon who leads. Miss Corby has a total of 1,268.

The three-day competition ends today with the big game round.

AFL-CIO To Nix Hoffa

By WILLIAM J. EATON

CHICAGO (UP)—Midwest Teamsters Boss Jimmy Hoffa will not be acceptable to the AFL-CIO Executive Council as president of the huge trucking union informed sources said today.

The council's attitude toward Hoffa stiffened as a result of backstage discussions by national labor leaders at the four-day council meeting ending today.

Hoffa has no significant opposition in his bid for the Teamsters top job and is considered a cinch to be installed in the $50,000 a year post.

AFL-CIO officials thus far have not developed an air-tight case against the 44-year-old Teamster tough guy but believe that his associations and activities should bar him from a top leadership position, the sources said.

The Teamsters Union faces a showdown with the AFL-CIO next month on charges that the union is dominated by corrupt influences, but Hoffa has not been included in the AFL-CIO indictment made public.

Unless accused President Dave Beck and two other top officials are removed, the Teamsters might be ousted from the united labor movement.

Some council members are frankly worried that ouster of the large trucking union would deprive other unions of a tremendous weapon in waging strikes.

Other council members say the AFL-CIO will have to live with that problem and suspend the union if Hoffa becomes Teamster chief, informed sources said.

Hershey Declares Regular Dividend

HERSHEY, Pa. (UP)—The Hershey Chocolate Corp. has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on common stock, payable Sept. 13 to stockholders of record Aug. 23, 1957.

At its meeting here Wednesday, the board of directors also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 53 cents per share on the Series A, preferred stock, payable Nov. 15 to stockholders of record Oct. 25, 1957.

RISES TO DEFENSE — 232-pound Anthony Doria, Encino, Calif., secretary-treasurer of the Allied Industrial Workers till he left the post under fire, is shown as he painted a new and different picture of Johnny Dio on the Senate labor rackets witness stand in Washington. He said Dio sought "respectability," but was hounded by a callous society. The committee wanted to know what about a $10,000 bond from a now defunct AFL United Auto Workers local to a business enterprise in Los Angeles in which Doria has an interest.

West Newton Men To Direct Tractor Contest at Fair

A tractor pulling contest will be the feature next Thursday at the Westmoreland County Fair, according to C. Homer Miller, R. D. No. 2, Greensburg, president.

This contest will be supervised by the members of the Sewickley Township Fair Association, Felix Angelcyk, R. D. No. 1, West Newton, President. Chairman of the contest will be Henry Lash, R. D. No. 1, West Newton.

Lash stated that there would be four weight classes for tractors as follows:

Lightweight, up to 5,500.
Mediumweight, 5,500 — 7,000.
Lightheavyweight, 7,000 — 8,000.
Heavyweight, 8,000 and up.

Tractors must be on the grounds by 8 p. m., Thursday. The total weight will include the tractor and driver.

The Fair Association is offering prizes in each class as follows: 1st prize — $15.00; 2nd prize — $10.00; 3rd prize — $5.00.

'Tough' Labor Racketeer Won't Talk to Committee

WASHINGTON (UP) — Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo, described as a labor racketeer so tough that he hired out just to glare at workers, tried to duck the Senate Labor Rackets Committee today and then refused to answer questions.

Corallo, who earned his nickname by his ability to duck conviction after his many arrests, said any answers he might give might tend to incriminate him.

He gave the committee only his name and address and refused to say whether he was "a known racketeer."

Chairman John L. McClellan (D Ark) said the committee expected to show that Corallo and racketeer Johnny Dio "participated in the fraud" of setting up phony "paper locals" of the Teamsters Union to rig an election and swing control of the Teamsters in New York to union crown prince James R. Hoffa.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Corallo controls four teamster locals in New York, plus one local each of the Retail Clerks Union and AFL United Textile Workers, and formerly bossed a local of the old AFL United Auto Workers.

Also called to testify was Samuel Goldstein, who was convicted last month with Dio in a labor rackets case. Goldstein formerly headed Local 29.

Kennedy said the committee would show that Corallo, who controls half a dozen various union locals in New York, and Dio were "interested" in the election of John O'Rourke to head Joint Council 16, controlling body of the Teamsters in the New York area.

The committee has charged that Hoffa, unopposed candidate to succeed Dave Beck in a few weeks as head of the nation's largest union, rigged the 1956 election for O'Rourke, a loyal supporter. The committee said Hoffa set up seven phony "paper" locals of the union and stuffed them with hoodlums from Dio's locals of the old AFL United Auto Workers.

Grand Trustee in Visit to City's K. of P. Lodge

Grand Trustee Samuel Glick, of McKeesport, visited last night at the regular meeting of the Monessen Knights of Pythias lodge held in the lodge rooms on Schoonmaker Ave.

As a special feature of the session the birthday anniversary of Mr. Glick's son, Morley, was observed. The latter, a resident of Pricedale, belongs to the local lodge.

Tentative plans were discussed for holding a corn roast in conjunction with the women's lodge, but no definite date was selected.

On Aug. 27 members of the lodge will attend a Pittsburgh Pirate baseball game at Forbes Field.

Kenneth Gibson conducted the session. There was a report given on plans for the Grand Lodge convention to be held at the Penn Sheraton Hotel, Pittsburgh, Aug. 19 to 22. Anthony Lanève will represent the Monessen lodge at the meet. He also serves as a grand trustee.

On Tuesday evening the men made a trip to Pittsburgh to attend the annual Jaycee football game. Enroute home they stopped for a late supper.

Pardon Sailors

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—The government has pardoned 33 navy enlisted men and released them from prison where they were serving time for participating in subversive activities since the overthrow of the Peron dictatorship.

Neighborhood Party Held in Rostraver Twp.

The first neighborhood party was held last night in Rosemont, a new development in Rostraver Township. There were approximately 90 guests present representing more than 20 families, who reside in the new plan.

Every family participated in the event, which was highlighted by the serving of a 7 o'clock evening meal. The large buffet table was arranged in the main street, which was cut off from traffic, especially for the celebration.

Corn and wieners were served along with the pies and cakes and other foods made by the women of Rosemont, who prepared the meal under the direction of Mrs. Rose Guzzie.

Among the guests were the builders of Rosemont, Charles L. Melenyzer and Russell Melenyzer and their families.

After dinner the large group of children joined in games and contests, and the adults spent the time square dancing.

The event was proclaimed so successful that the Rosemont folks are planning for other activities.

A Foolish Idea

WE BELIEVE the State Department is dead right in discouraging those American boys and girls now visiting Moscow from making a proposed tour of Red China as guests of the Communist regime of that country.

While it sounds very good to encourage exchanges of students and other tourists between the Communist world and the free world as a means of promoting understanding, as a practical matter such visits — or most of them — merely serve Communist purposes.

We cannot allow ourselves to forget that, in every sense but the military, we are at war with the Communist nations. And the purpose behind all their moves, including invitations to students to visit them, is not to promote understanding but to advance the Communist cause.

A free and voluntary exchange of tourists among the nations is, of course, one of the most desirable aspects of a normal world. And we must never cease to strive for that kind of world.

But western tourists who visit Communist countries as official "guests" are playing into the hands of the Reds. They will see nothing that they are not supposed to see, and their presence will be used as Communist propaganda around the world.

No American government can get any pleasure from telling American citizens that they must not do something. But the government would be doing less than its duty not to point out to those young people in Moscow the folly of what they plan to do.

A Deserved Honor

THE PROMOTION by Governor Leader of U. S. Sen. Edward Martin to be a lieutenant general of the Pennsylvania National Guard is a well deserved honor for the man who, by any standard of judgment, is this state's most distinguished native son.

General Martin's active military career has, of course, been finished since the early days of World War II. And when he retires from the Senate after next year, presumably his services in elective public office will be concluded also.

But Governor Leader's thoughtful action is another timely reminder of the debt which Pennsylvania will always owe to a man who has served it perhaps longer and as ably as it has ever been served.

From private to lieutenant general and from ordinary citizen and lawyer to governor and senator, Ed Martin's record of public service is virtually unmatched. And at an age when most men are content with their rocking chairs and carpet slippers, he labors in Washington's fierce grind, respected by all his colleagues as one of the hardest working members of Congress.

Senator-General Martin has earned a rest if any man ever earned it, and we hope he has many healthful years remaining. And one of the great joys of these years will surely be the knowledge that Pennsylvania cherishes him as one of its finest sons of all time.

No Deals for Ike

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has done well, we believe, in trying to stiffen the spines of some of the Republicans in Congress on the civil rights issue.

Mr. Eisenhower has made it known that he is not interested in making deals on civil rights and that he is not ready to accept any old bill which happens to carry a civil rights label.

Taking this cue, the Republican leaders in Congress, Senator Knowland and Congressman Martin, are renewing their efforts to get a bill passed which will be more effective in protecting the southern Negro's right to vote than the watered-down Senate version.

The tactics of the anti-civil rights forces are becoming too transparent to be effective much longer. When Speaker Rayburn says, for instance, that the Republicans must now show whether they want a civil rights bill or a political issue, it is not hard to see that he himself is looking for a political issue. He is trying to make it appear that those who favor a stronger measure than the Senate bill are actually preventing the adoption of any bill.

Any compromise on so fundamental a question as the right to vote is bound to be suspect. And if Congress passes a civil rights bill which makes the right to vote any less effective than the Constitution intends it to be, it will not be hard for the American people to assess the responsibility justly. It will rest squarely on the shoulders of the compromisers.

Merry-Go-Round—

Ike's Record On School Aid Rapped

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — As one who has been called names by Presidents, I suppose I should get sardonic satisfaction from the fact that President Eisenhower was called a "lousy liar" by Congressman Cleveland Bailey of West Virginia. But I didn't. Name-calling in American politics doesn't pay.

Mr. Pearson

However, the issue which caused Congressman Bailey to pop off—namely aid to education — is one of the most important to the nation, and if you know Congressman Bailey's role in the battle for better education, you can understand why he lost his temper.

It so happens that Bailey has been one of the most valiant and faithful fighters for schools in the entire history of Congress. For seven years he has struggled to pass a school bill. At the climax of this struggle, just as the aid to education bill was about to come up for a vote, he saw the President do two things which the public didn't know about.

1. — Ike called off his press conference the day before the school bill vote so he would not have to express an opinion on it.

2. — The President also suppressed a vitally important report urging federal aid to colleges just before the school bill vote.

Many months earlier, the President had appointed a "Committee on Education Beyond the High School." Chairman of the Committee was a conservative Republican and J. P. Morgan director, Devereaux Josephs, chairman of the New York Life Insurance Co. This is not exactly a Communist organization and Mr. Josephs is not unfriendly to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

This Ike-appointed committee had finished a painstaking report which was marked for public release July 28 — the Sunday before the House was scheduled to vote on school construction.

While the report did not specifically support the school construction bill, it did make alarming statements about our lagging education.

It cited an "unparalleled demand" by all Americans for better and better education, American education, it said, has entered a "revolutionary phase."

"Without realizing it, we have become a society of students," said this report, headed by one of the most conservative businessmen in New York.

White House Suppression

Then, after outlining the tremendous need for education, the committee appointed by Eisenhower proceeded to criticize the government for failure to make known the needs of aid for education.

"We have been struck above all else," said the President's committee, "by the astounding lack of accurate, consistent, and up-to-date facts, and by how little this nation knows about its educational enterprise."

This report, which would have helped to enlighten Congress on educational needs just before it was to vote on the aid to education bill, was all ready for publication July 8. Suddenly the President held it up. The report was suppressed and the school bill defeated.

After that, the President announced to the public that he had done everything in his power to support the school bill. And after that, Congressman Bailey of West Virginia called him "a lousy liar."

Probing Business

If you're a senator investigating labor, or if you're a senator investigating big business it makes a lot of difference.

In order to investigate either group after the Senate convenes every morning, you have to get permission of the Senate leadership, because Senate committees are not supposed to sit while the Senate is in session.

Last week an interesting thing happened when Sen. Estes Kefauver was probing the high cost of living and had Roy Blough, fast-talking head of U. S. Steel, on the witness stand to ascertain why U. S. Steel contributed to inflation by boosting prices. Naturally, such important testimony as U. S. Steel's could not be concluded in a single morning, so when the Senate convened at 12 noon, Kefauver asked permission to meet in the afternoon.

Senator Knowland of California, the GOP leader, promptly objected. He had been tipped off by Sen. Everett Dirksen, Republican of Illinois, the member of Kefauver's committee who asked helpful questions of Blough.

So the Kefauver committee probing U. S. Steel's inflationary action didn't meet that afternoon. But down the hall from Kefauver's empty room, a jam-packed Senate Rackets Committee got permission to continue its more popular job of probing labor.

Today and Tomorrow—

East, West in Stalemate

By WALTER LIPPMANN

There is increasing evidence, it seems to me, that the stalemate in the cold war has become so deep that neither side has much hope or much fear that it will soon be broken. The ritual of proposals, offers, demands, and declarations goes on. But there is little pretense that they are serious in the sense that they are steps in a genuine negotiation. What we are now saying to the Russians and what they are now saying to us about Germany, China, the Middle East, and disarmament is said without any expectation that it may lead to an agreement.

Mr. Lippmann

We are talking to the West Germans and the Russians are talking to the East Germans. Each of us is laying down terms which presuppose that the other side has made an unconditional surrender. On disarmament we would like the Russians to give up their great advantage — their capacity to conceal their intentions and to spring a surprise. The Russians would like us to give up our great advantage, which is that we have bases within striking distance of the heart of the Soviet Union.

War Is Unlikely

These are some of the marks of the stalemate. For the time being, the balance of powers is such that there is no prospect of a general war, and there is no compulsion to settle the issues. The real concern of both coalitions — of the NATO powers and of the Warsaw powers — is inside their own spheres of interest and influence. Khrushchev is making a determined effort to hold the satellite empire in line. We are greatly concerned at the turmoil and the hostility in the Arab lands on our side of the iron curtain.

Since change is in the nature of things, we know that this stalemate will not persist forever. The overriding question is how the stalemate may come to an end.

There are two main possibilities. One is by what is known as a technological breakthrough which would give one side or the other undoubted military superiority. The other is by that erosion and dissolution of alliances and allegiances which is going on within the two coalitions. There is erosion in eastern Europe, which is obviously a great worry to the Kremlin. There is erosion in French North Africa, in the British Middle East, and in the American sphere of interest from Formosa and Okinawa to Japan.

Political Changes

On the whole, the probabilities seem to be that if the stalemate dissolves, it will be because of the great political changes that are taking place within the two coalitions. It is not, of course, for a layman to say that there will not be a decisive technological breakthrough that will radically alter the military balance of power. But a layman can say that foreign policy cannot be founded on the possibility that something, which is not happening, could conceivably happen some day nevertheless.

Moreover, the new invention would have to be a very big one—say, some easily produced device, unknown and unavilable to the other side, which would be an almost perfect defense against bombers and missiles. For the stalemate will almost certainly not be broken as long as both sides have the power to inflict terrible and crippling blows on each other.

The history of invention shows, it seems to me, that where there is such an intense competition as between the Soviet Union and ourselves, where the best brains from all over the world are mobilized on the problem, where such great resources are available, the chances are very small that there will be a new invention which, if it is decisive, is also unique.

Influence Declines

It is more probable, then, that when the stalemate dissolves it will be because of political developments in Germany, in Eastern Europe, in North Africa and the Middle East, in China and in Japan. The one thing that can be said of all these problem areas, of these unsettled lands, is that the influence of the great powers is declining.

It has been declining ever since the second World War. The Soviet sphere of influence is big. But it is not so big as it threatened to be a few years ago — as witness the resistance of Eastern Europe and the approach of China to a position of equality. Our own sphere of influence is also big. But the days are past when it could be supposed in Washington that there should be no neutrals, that every nation not under direct Communist domination was in duty bound to sign up with us.

As power declines, the problems of diplomacy become more difficult, requiring more knowledge, more insight, more sympathy, and more delicacy. That is one reason why it is worse today than it used to be to send out to the embassies the well-meaning but the ignorant.

State, Federal Functions Are Receiving Study

By RAMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has a committee consulting with governors about ways for the federal government to turn back some of its functions and tax levies to the states.

And Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) is proposing that Congress consult governors before it launches any new programs of federal aid to the states or expands old ones.

These two efforts point up an old issue about which there has been much talk but little action. Eisenhower's committee and a committee representing the governors stuck a toe in the water at a meeting last weekend at Hershey, Pa.

Mr. Lahr

Ike Proposes Meeting

The meeting was an outgrowth of a proposal made by the President when he addressed the annual governors' conference at Williamsburg, Va., two months ago. In effect he asked the governors to put up or shut up if they believe the federal government should have fewer functions and the states more.

Goldwater cited the joint move to realign government functions in a Senate speech Tuesday night. He also introduced a resolution to require Senate committees to poll the governors whenever they consider bills that would put another tap on the federal treasury for aid to states.

He felt it would be a tough job to halt the trend toward more federal aid which he said had doubled in the past four years. He said pressure from special interest groups and federal bureaus would make it tough.

Some of the governors have thought of other problems, particularly on the sensitive issue of raising state taxes to pay for some of the functions they would take over. Economic competition between states in an effort to attract and retain industry is a factor in framing their tax laws.

Suggested Tax Proposals

At the Hershey meeting a tentative agreement was reached on taxes which would not have much effect on the location of industry. It was proposed that states take over such taxes as are now levied by the federal government on local telephone service and entertainment, and that states take a bigger share of gift and inheritance taxes.

The two committees also agreed the states ought to take over part or all of the work now done by the federal government in handling the school lunch program, vocational education, disaster relief and payments to the needy aged.

The federal budget for the current year estimates federal spending for aid to state and local governments at more than $3,800,000,000, a little more than 5 per cent of the budget. This does not include $1,600,000,000 in federal aid for highway construction which is now disbursed from a trust fund outside the regular budget.

The Lighter Side—

Another Elvis Presley Looms on Horizon

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—The brothers Phillips, two gents from way down yonder in Memphis, Tenn., who contributed Elvis Presley to world culture, are all shook up about a new boy in their pasture.

This is a blond, curly-haired, blue-eyed, 21-year-old rock 'n' roller from Farriday, La., who is going great guns with a two-month-old record named "Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On" and has another ready to bust out called "Great Balls of Fire."

His name is Jerry Lee Lewis. He plays the piano while he sings. He has sideburns but not as long as Presley's.

Does he shake like Elvis?

"Doesn't have to," says Jud Phillips. "When he feels like it, he just jumps up and kicks the piano stool across the stage and plays standing up. And his legs get real stiff. What's different about him is that he's got a beat, a rhythm, like you've never felt.

TV Future Seen

"And what's encouraging is that the same people who turned Presley down at the start, turned Lewis down. All of the same people who told us Elvis didn't have anything told us Jerry Lee didn't have anything. I don't believe anybody will be as fabulous as Presley has been because Presley was standing on the right corner at the right time. But I think this kid will be a great TV artist."

Jud Phillips brought his boy into New York for his second national TV show in two weeks while brother Sam Phillips stayed home and tended store at the Sun Record Co., which has sold 400,000 "Whole Lotta Shakin'" records in two months.

"And we're shipping about 10,000 a day now," Jud said. "Yesterday we shipped 16,671."

Sam Phillips, the man who is given credit for discovering Presley, teaching him how to shake, and telling him to let his hair grow, is president of the Sun Record Co. and runs an all-girl radio station in Memphis named, naturally, W(HER). Jud is national sales manager of the record company.

No More Sales

They sold Presley to RCA Victor a couple of years ago, but Jud says they don't aim to sell anymore artists to anybody—particularly not Lewis.

Presley was 19 and a truck driver when he came into the Phillips recording studio one morning in 1953 to make a record, thump the guitar and sing, to take home to his mother.

"We walked through the studio at the time he was singing," Jud recalls, "and Sam looks up and says: 'Here's the voice we been looking for.' He had been singing at church services and revivals."

As for the Presley shaking: "We were trying to develop him into a rhythm and blues singer, and Sam told him, 'Just get up there in front of the mike and when you have a run, shake you hips.' So he did. Didn't take him too long to learn."

'Rattle the Dry Bones'

To the Editor:

Congratulations and commendations on your courageous loyalty to the best traditions of American journalism when situations arise where the public welfare demands such action.

Your editorial policy and your comments on the nomination of David Weiss for Judge in Westmoreland County and your call for action by all good citizens come as the voice of the Prophet Ezekiel in the Valley of Dry Bones (Ezekiel 37).

Surely, in Westmoreland County, the liberty loving, self-respecting, decent citizens will start a rattling of the dry bones in the ranks of the Republican and Democratic parties, will recognize their responsibility and unite to smash the corrupt, arrogant gang that have set themselves up as the overlords of Westmoreland County and its municipalities.

They have set up Dave Weiss (yes, our fellow citizen whom we know so well) and in attempting to prove to the citizens of the county that he has ability and experience, they list his various political jobs.

Every citizen within a ten-mile limit of Monessen, the members of the Westmoreland County Bar Association, and many others throughout the county, know that these jobs have been given to him not because of ability, or integrity, or honesty, but as a reward for venal servitude, campaign contributions and loyalty to the boss, etc., etc.

We who know him know that he has no qualifications for interpreting the law or for passing intelligent, honest judgment on the affairs of those citizens who must bring their affairs into the court.

Will the Dry Bones take on sinews and flesh and have red blood in their veins and rise to this occasion or will corruption continue in the county?

College 'Scouts' Visit Monessen

Monessen was visited by several college grid "scouts" this week. Frank Kush was here from Arizona State ((Tempe) and Walt Kochefski from Miamo, Fla. Recruiting is not permitted but the rules say nothing about interested parties talking to prospective grid football candidates. Kush is interested in John Bogovich and Bob Burns, of last season's greyhound eleven while Kochefski likes Maurice Mathieu, top scorer for the 'Hounds and the Mon Valley Conference last year. Both men visited for a few days with Monessen grid mentor Armand Niccolai. Hush also spent some time with our man Friday, Lou Kichinko. We'll try and give you a complete list of Monessen athletes leaving for college, within a few days.

Two Big Six Conference gridders of last season are being considered for the Fayette County "Athlete of the Year" award to be given between halves of the Fayette-Washington County All-Star game tonight at Canonsburg. They are Charles Packan, of Redstone and Don Kostelnik of Brownsville . . . Redstone High coach Joe Bosnic is now searching for a grid assistant who can teach social studies since end mentor John Katusa left for Monongahela . . . John Moon former Donora High gridder, is the new heavyweight boxing champion of the USS Albany, a naval cruiser. Moon kayoed Joe Satoa, who had fought Floyd Patterson when Floyd was a simon pure, in the second round. Moon also owns a mark of four other second round knock outs. Another ex-Dragon athlete, Dick Jones, is fighting in service bouts as a middleweight.

Eye-Witness Report on Steelers

Jack Kerr, former Midget League Coach and President, gave us a first hand report on the Pittsburgh Steelers. While on his vacation last week, at Bradford, near Olean, N. Y., home of St. Bonaventure College, where the Steelers train, Jack dropped over for a visit with his old California Teachers buddy Franny Rogel. Jack and Fran played on that great undefeated 1946 Vulcan team. Rogel went on to star for Penn State. While visiting the Steelers Jack lunched with George Tarasovich, Marv Matuzak, Bill McPeak and John Reger. Jack reports the team has lots of hustle, with the vets showing as much desire to practice as the young rookies. He says the camp rules are strict — no night life at all, bed check, eveing chalk talks, heavy drills, etc. Tarasovich is a nephew of John Filichko of Indiana Avenue.

It'll look like a sports "who's who" at the PONY World series in Washington week after next. Among the celebrities scheduled to appear during series week are Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, ex-Yankee great; Bob Sheffing Chicago Cubs manager, who started his career at Washingeton when the Redbirds were in the Penn State League; Bob Feller, who needs no introduction, and PONY President Joe E. Brown. Gomez, one of the greatest and funniest southpaws of the Yankees' Ruth-Gehrig era, will be the main speaker at the PONY banquet . . . Speaking of the PONY series, Donora will carry district colors into the tourney keeping the Washington County string of representing the State each year intact. It's been either Washington or Monongahela in the past.

No formal banquet program is planned but a delicious meal is guaranteed and presentation of gifts to the coaches will highlight the program . . . Joe Metro will be making his last coaching stand in the district tonight when he helps Milt Decker and Al DeLucia guide the Fayette County All-Stars against the Washingtons at Canonsburg. Metro, who formerly coached at Ellsworth, has resigned to take the head grid job at Bloomsburg High. He's a former Monongahela High and Penn State star.

Donor of Professional "Athlete-of-the-Year" Award

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP) — The story of America is built around heroes. In our democracy, from the very beginning, a man or a boy has had the choice of picking his own idol. Most of these idols have come from the field of sports, and as far back as I can remember, I was a sports fan.

Liking sports came rather easy. My father, S. Rae Hickok, was a sportsman who fished and hunted and liked the outdoor life. My brother, Alan, and I grew up taught to relax through sports. My sports in prep school and college were football, wrestling and crew. I was lucky and ended up as stroke and captain of our crew at Rollins College in Florida.

I love hunting and fishing of all types, although my time is very limited. I was most fortunate in being able to enjoy a big game safari in Africa this past January.

Dangerous Sport

As ardent a fisherman as I have been with rod and reel, I have in the last few years become a real spear-fishing enthusiast. When you look a shark in the eyes under water with nothing but a little spear for protection, it's about the same sensation as seeing a wounded lion on charge or three tons of rhino coming out of the bush straight for you.

My brother, Alan, is also an expert hunter and fisherman, and only last year was credited with catching the second largest fish ever to have been captured on rod and reel, which is a 1,540-pound black marlin at Cabo Blanco, Peru.

Until dad passed away, relaxing through sports was a family affair. We hunted everything from upland game to bear and mountain lion together. When our father left us, and we suddenly found ourselves at a very young age running a multi - million dollar business, time for sports became very limited. Our father, as most dads, was our great hero, and we wanted to do everything within our power to pay tribute to the man who had taught us our love for sports, brought us up and built a great business.

Most of the major awards or trophies seemed to aim at the amateur athlete, and yet the professional athlete seemed to have a far greater effect over the youth of America. We feel that rewarding the sports heroes is a way of not only helping the athlete but also the younger generation.

The American youngster is fundamentally good. Give them an idol whose path they can follow, and they should be able to avoid serious pitfalls that lead to delinquency. The kids who love baseball and other sports don't get into the trouble that those with time on their hands do. We are sincere advocators of the theory and practice of fighting juvenile delinquency through heroes in sports.

Myfords, PNA Win City Tilts

One City Softball League team was virtually knocked out of a playoff berth while another enhanced its chances for the championship play following last night's results.

PNA topped ULBA 14-6 in the first contest to tie for fourth place and keep open the playoff door providing it can do a repeat over the top-running Cro-Ams tonight.

Meanwhile, the second game found Myfords virtually eliminating MPSA with a 7-2 decision.

The PNA victory over ULBA featured two big innings, the fourth and fifth, in which the winners scored six runs each, mainly on faulty fielding by the losers.

Joe Gladys who blasted out a homer and two singles, and Les Divitto with two homers paced the PNA entry while Al Matozzi with a home run and single, Joe Hupchick with a double and single and Joe Karbowsky with two singles looked best for the ULBA team.

A terrific five-hit pitching job by Tony Turcaso led Myfords to its victory over MPSA.

Two runs crossed for the Myfords in the second on walks, a double by Bill Radosh and a single by Jim Hayes. Another run scored in the third on Jock Senich's homer. A single MPSA marker scored in the fourth on a two-bagger by Ed Lea and a single by Rich Grogan. MPSA scored its final marker on singles by Russell Bronson and Milford Holmes and a double by Rich James in the fifth.

Myfords pulled away in the sixth with four more markers to nail down the decision.

Action tonight concludes the regular season play with Cro-Ams and PNA meeting in the first game, ULBA and Ravens in the second tilt.

D'Amato Claims Louis 'Was Told' To Knock Bout

KENT, Wash. (UP) — Former world heavyweght champion Joe Louis was "told to say" that present title holder Floyd Patterson has done an un-championlike thing by accepting a bout with Pete Rademacher who has never fought professionally, Patterson's manager said Wednesday night.

Cus D'Amato, watching Patterson spar at Kent Memorial Park, said Louis "is entitled to his opinion — but I don't think that's his opinion."

The Brown Bomber had been quoted from Milwaukee, Wis., as saying he "would never have done a thing like that," and "neither would any other champion in boxing."

D'Amato said he thought Louis was speaking "as an official of the International Boxing Club.

"They've done everything they can to pan this fight. But I don't think Joe would say anything like that on his own," D'Amato added.

Rademacher, meanwhile, did some shadow boxing, sparred two rounds, and worked up a sweat with calisthenics in preparation for the 15-round heavyweight title bout Aug. 22 at Sick's Stadium, Seattle.

Football Begins Taking Over as 'King Sport'

Physical Exams set for Greyhounds, Leps Today; Equipment Issued 'Canes

This is the week football makes its initial bid to take over the sports scene in the valley as it begins crowding baseball off the headline spot.

One All-Star game has been played, another is set for tonight and practically all district schools are calling players for physicals and equipment issuing sessions this week.

Coach Armand Niccolai of the Monessen Greyhounds called his gridders out this morning for physicals. Dr. M. W. Heatter examined the players at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Exams are also set for Rostraver today and tomorrow morning with Dr. Eugene O'Leary of this city, making sure the Leonard gridders are fit and ready. Exams are set for 10 o'clock at LaGrange School.

Bellmar coach Bap Manzini has called his squad for the issuance of equipment with physicals set as soon as school physician Dr. Vincent Bolton returns from vacation, possibly today.

All three of the above mentioned schools have changes in their coaching staffs although not in the head mentor department.

Niccolai and Manzini hold sway at Monessen and Bellmar again and Wade Bender guides the Leps.

Assistant-wise, however, Niccolai must find a replacement for Nick Chomko, who resigned yesterday. Manzini has a new aide in Tom Healey and Bender welcomes George Estok and George Cocella as new helpers.

All three open drills Monday with first games the second week of September, Monessen at Windber, Bellmar at Perry, and Rostraver hosting Snowden.

Bailey Hopes to Keep Streak in Heidelberg Races

Only one driver has been able to win three straight feature races at any of the four Pittsburgh Racing Assn. tracks this season.

Dick Bailey gained that distinction last week at Heidelberg and will be trying for his fourth this Thursday night.

Bailey actually has knocked the PRA point leaders — Herb Scott and Dick Linder — out of the picture at Heidelberg. Pace-setting Scott hasn't been able to win a feature there all season and Runner-up Dick Linder hasn't won for a month.

Another driver to be watched tonight is Glade Neil who drives Jack Holman's No. 10, the car that has been plagued by motor blow ups and tire blowouts but still has been able to push into the Top Ten in the point standings and appears to have been "cured" of motor ailments.

The first of three heat races is set for 8:30 p. m., followed by the semi-finals, semi-feature, novice races and the 25-lap feature.

Leopard Grid Exams Today, Tomorrow

Physical examinations for Rostraver high school gridders were announced for this morning and tomorrow morning of this week, by Athletic Director James Weir.

The examinations will be given beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning by Dr. Eugene O'Leary, of Monessen, Rostraver school physician, at the LaGrange School.

Greens Defeat Yellows in LL Minors Classic

The Greens beat the Yellows in the annual Little League Minor League All-Star game, 17-14.

Heavy hitting featured the contest with nine doubles being blasted out and a total of eight pitchers used at the Rec picnic yesterday.

The Yellows took a lead of 8-6 after two innings, then increased the margin to 12-6 at the end of four only to have the Greens come back with 11 in the last two innings for victory.

Yellow and green T-shirts which the teams wore during the game were presented the players by the Recreation Department.

The game concluded the Minor League activity for the season. John Dacko supervised the successful program.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Wrong Stance

If I've heard it once I've heard it a thousand times: "I knew I wasn't going to hit that shot right."

And when I ask HOW did you know, the usual answer is: "I just didn't feel right over the ball."

This kind of thing happens all the time. It happens to me and to all other golfers.

The only solution I know — and the one I employ — is to step away from the ball and take the stance over again — from the beginning! There's no law, you know, that forces you to stay with a shot simply because you have begun addressing the ball.

Stepping away will save you a lot of shots. It is essential to a good golf shot that you feel right about it before you start swinging. So get the right feeling about it! Then bang out with confidence and watch your score improve.

West Penn Golf Amateur Begins

PITTSBURGH (UP) — First round play in the 57th annual Western Pennsylvania Aamteur Golf Tournament gets under way today at Allegheny Country Club with defending champion Jim Curti of Churchill Valley Country Club meeting Sam Musico of Chartiers.

In Wednesday's qualifying round Fred Paine of Oakmont carded a one over par 71 to lead the field of 79, which was pared down to 32, for today's play. Paine won the Pennsylvania amateur tourney at Sunnehanna in Johnstown in 1955, and this year was runnerup in the event played last month at Oakmont.

Placing second in Wednesday's qualifying round was Musico who won the West Penn title in 1953. He carded a 72.

Four players placed third with a 74. They were Richie Manns, 19-year old Notre Dame sophomore from Duquesne Club; Tommy Smith, of Greensburg, a former West Penn Champion; Bob Reilly of Highland and Steve Savor of Alcoma.

Today's tee-off time in the match play event was 9:00 p m

Rampaging Bucs Win Again

Errors, 17 Hits Supply 10-3 Rout

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates parlayed four errors and 17 hits into a 10-3 rout over the floundering Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night.

The loss went to lefthander Curt Simmons, his eighth in 19 decisions, while Vernon Law cruised easily to his ninth win against seven losses for Pittsburgh.

Seven of the first eight Pirates runs were unearned as the Phils used six pitchers in a futile attempt to stop the rampaging Pittsburgh club.

Maz and Thomas

Bill Mazeroski and Frank Thomas supplied the power for the Pirates, each driving in three runs. Thomas hit a two-run homer in the eighth to wind up the scoring for the visitors. Gene Freese contributed four singles and Roberto Clemente got three hits.

Simmons was relieved by Jim Hearn in the second, who was relieved by Jack Meyer in the fourth, who was relieved by Seth Morehead in the same inning, who was relieved by Bob Miller in the sixth, who was relieved by Dick Farrell in the eighth.

Fayette-Wash County All-Stars In Annual Tilt

The Washington and Fayette county coaches' associations will present their fourth all-star attraction tonight at Washington High School Stadium.

Unless rain or threatening weather interferes, a throng of 5,000 or more is expected to be on hand for the 8:30 kickoff.

If the game should be postponed tonight because of rain, it will be staged tomorrow night.

No reserved seats are available.

The Washington squad, guided by Canonsburg's Al DeLucia, Trinity's Milt Decker and Ellsworth's Joe Metro (who is moving to Bloomsburg this Autumn), will be trying to square the series at two victories apiece and maintain the tradition that the home team always wins.

Fayette copped the '54 inaugural at Brownsville and last year's game at Connellsville, both by identical 14-6 scores, Washington won at Canonsburg, 6-0, in 1955.

Perry-Lower Tyrone's Don Mains will lead the Fayette strategy board that also includes German Township's Lou Rozzi and Brownsville's Charley Slick.

The game is rated a toss-up.

Score Returns to Action for Indians

CLEVELAND (UP)—Left-hander Herb Score, who was the ace of the Cleveland Indians pitching staff when he was struck in the right eye by a line drive off the bat of New York Yankee Gil McDougald on May 7, will return to the active playing list on Monday.

The Indians announced Score will accompany the team to Kansas City for its next series, and presumably will be put into a game soon.

To make room for Score on the roster, the Indians sent infielder Ken Kuhn to Mobile, to report on Monday.

Local Entry Protests TCSL Playoff Defeat

President Ted Nichols of the Tri-County Softball League has called a meeting for tonight to rule on a protest of last night's Monessen-Monongahela playoff contest, the second of their best-of-three series.

Monongahela won 3-2, but both teams filed protests on the game, Monongahela on the fact that there was no pitcher's block at Ninth Street Park, and Monessen on a ruling on an overthrow that cost them a run.

Tom Standard and Art Doty locked in a hurling duel last night with Steve Trembush, Babe Weightman of Monessen and Doty and Dave Schaum of Monongahela providing the batting punch, all with doubles. Jack Kuhn was two for two for Monessen as was Art Bandin while Doty also contributed a single for his team, the only Monongahelan getting two safe blows.

Standard fanned six, walked two, Doty struck out five, walked none.

Action continues tonight with Roscoe battling Pricedale at Lynnwood. Roscoe is one-up in the three-game series. Game time is 5:30 o'clock.

Braves Turning NL Race Into Cakewalk; Sox Pressing in AL

By FRED DOWN

The Milwaukee Braves have turned the National League race into a cakewalk but those stubborn Chicago White Sox are still convinced they can make the New York Yankees walk the plank in the American League.

The amazing Braves made it nine straight victories and ballooned their lead to 7½ games when they crushed the Cincinnati Redlegs, 13-3, Wednesday night. They've now won 15 of their last 16 games and 23 of their last 28 in an "all-out" drive that's left their rivals all out in the cold.

The White Sox were supposed to be about ready for a knockout blow by now, but they're acting very much like a contender. They whipped the Cleveland Indians, 8-3, Wednesday night to give them six wins in their last eight games and cut the Yankees' first - place lead to 4½ games.

Both the Braves and White Sox are combining the unbeatable elements —solid pitching backed by devastating hitting. The Braves have averaged 9.2 runs a game in their nine - game winning streak while the White Sox have averaged seven runs a game in their last 10.

Buhl Wins 16th

A pair of "hot pitchers" did their share, Bob Buhl gaining his seventh straight victory and 16th of the season for the Braves and Dick Donovan chalking up his fifth in a row and 13th of the year for the White Sox. It was the Braves' 13th victory in 15 games with the Redlegs and the White Sox' eighth in a row over the collapsing Indians.

The Braves wrapped up the triumph with an eight-run ninth-inning rally marked by Wes Covington's grand slam homer and relief pitcher Don McMahon's three-run double. Johnny Logan had homered earlier for the Braves while solo homers by Joe Taylor, Gus Bell and George Crowe accounted for all three Cincinnati runs. Brooks Lawrence, winless since July 21, suffered his fifth defeat in succession and 10th of the campaign.

Donovan, who scattered nine hits, contributed a homer to the White Sox' 14 - hit attack which also included round - trippers by Minnie Minoso and Jim Rivera. Larry Doby had three hits for the Sox and Luis Aparicio, Minoso and Earl Torgeson two each to help hand Early Wynn his 13th setback.

Boston Beats Yankees

The Chicago Cubs handed the St. Louis Cardinals their eighth consecutive loss, 3-1, the Brooklyn Dodgers shaded the New York Giants, 7-6, and the Pittsburgh Pirates dumped the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-3, in other NL action. The Boston Red Sox beat the Yankees, 6-4, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Washington Senators, 4-2, and the Detroit Tigers walloped the Kansas City Athletics, 7-4, in other AL games.

Dick Drott hurled a six - hitter and struck out six to gain his 11th win for the Cubs, who made it two in a row over the Cardinals. Walt Moryn and Ernie Banks hit back-to-back homers in the sixth inning for Chicago.

Eddie Roebuck's air-tight relief job and homers by Gil Hodges, Elmer Valo and Don Zimmer enabled the Dodgers to break a three-game losing skein. Roebuck entered the game after the Giants routed Danny McDevitt with a five-run, seventh - inning uprising. Willie Mays' hitting streak ended at 19 games.

Pirates Bombard Phils

Vern Law breezed to his ninth win as the Pirates took advantage of four Philadelphia errors to score seven unearned runs. Gene Freese had four hits and Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski three each to spark the Pirates' 17-hit attack. Curt Simmons lost his eighth decision for Philadelphia.

Ted Williams knocked in three runs with his 31st homer and a single and raised his average to .390 to help Tom Brewer win his 14th game. Whitey Ford, kayoed in the second inning, lost his fourth game and Mickey Mantle had only one hit for New York and saw his average drop to .382.

George Zuverink, making his 45th relief appearance, halted a Washington rally in the eighth inning and preserved Hal Brown's fifth win. Gus Triandos and Brooks Robinson homered for the Orioles who dealt the Senators their fifth loss in succession.

Al Kaline smacked his 13th homer and two singles to lead a 15-hit Tiger attack that brought Frank Lary his first win since June 15th and his fifth of the year. Ralph Terry, the ex - Yankee, was kayoed in 5 2-3 innings and dropped his seventh decision.

Moore Decisions Featherweight Champ of Mexico

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—Davey Moore, who used a well - planned right hand attack to gain a split decision Wednesday night over the featherweight champion of Mexico, now wants to go for the world title.

The Springfield, Ohio, feather said, "I want a fight with Bassey, but I probably won't get it right away."

Moore's opponent in the War Memorial Auditorium 10 - round bout, Victor Manuel Quijano of Mexico City, also had hoped for a bout with world titlist Hogan (Kid) Bassey. But Moore's powerful right hand ruined Quijano's American debut and his immediate chances of a match with Bassey.

The five - foot, three - inch 129-pound victor lost ground to 130-pound Quijano only twice, in the second and final rounds, Quijano mounted a jabbing attack each time

Referee Joe Palmer and judge Dick Albino favored Moore, whom some fans call a "featherweight Dempsey," by three and five rounds respectively. Judge Harold McGrath scored it 4-5-1 for Quijano.

GameCommissionIssues Info on State Birdlife

The Pennsylvania Game Commission in response to many requests issues the following information on migratory and resident birds found in the Commonwealth.

Most wild birds are protected. Both state and federal laws provide penalties for anyone shooting at, possessing or killing migratory songbirds. In addition, the Pennsylvania Game Law provides penalties for anyone convicted of shooting at or killing game birds except in regular open seasons for hunting. It is also unlawful to possess or interfere with the nest or eggs of any game bird or other protected bird at any time.

State Game Protectors throughout the Commonwealth enforce these laws. They are often assisted by other law enforcement officers such as state and local police who also have power to arrest and prosecute persons who violate the law. Federal officers enforce the laws on migratory birds in the state.

Finally, there are many refuges and bird sanctuaries throughout Pennsylvania where hunting is prohibited and wild birds of all kinds are fully protected. The Game Commission has more than 60,000 acres in wildlife refuges on land which it administers. Perhaps the most famous of these sanctuaries is the Pymatuning Refuge, near Linesville, Crawford County. It covers 2,500 acres of land, and it furnishes migratory waterfowl a location in which to safely rest and feed on flights north and south. Many migratory birds nest there. Numerous sportsmen's organizations and bird clubs also maintain private refuges.

With modern laws and protection given to all wild birds, it is extremely unlikely that any kind of wild bird found in Pennsylvania will be exterminated in the foreseeable future. But there are some species — the raven, for instance — which are scarce. Even the American (bald) eagle, our National emblem, is not as plentiful in Pennsylvania or the North American continent as it once was. All birds must have certain natural conditions — primarily food and shelter — if they are to survive. Where man has destroyed these necessities, either accidenally or on purpose, birds cannot live.

Because there are many people today who enjoy wild birds — photographing them, hunting them, watching them, listening to their songs — great efforts are made to protect and preserve native and migrating birdlife. Nesting boxes are put up to substitute for holes in hollow trees, trees that were cut down to make room for houses, farms and cities. Many people maintain feeding stations for song and game birds, especially during the winter. Other people plant trees and shrubs which provide foods birds must have. Many birds are beneficial to farmers and all mankind because they eat bugs, worms, larvae and weed seeds.

The people of Pennsylvania are taking great interest in the wildlife of their State. And, more important, an increasing number of persons now provide the basic needs — food, shelter, water and living space — which wildlife must have to survive.

Expect 'Quite a Lot' Of Vaccine for Flu

WASHINGTON (UP)—Industry sources said today there is likely to be "quite a lot" of vaccine available to protect the public against Asiatic flu by Oct. 15.

These sources told the United Press it would be a "pretty good guess" as many as 25 million shots would be produced by mid October. After that they said drug makers will be geared to turn out five million shots a week—if the public is using the vaccine.

But they pointed out the six major drug firms making the vaccine are taking what amounts to a huge gamble by investing 10 million dollars in full-scale production without assurance the public will take the shots.

They noted the government is not subsidizing production and the risk is strictly the industry's own, taken at the government's urging.

They said if the public does not start widespread use of the vaccine by October or November at the latest, the industry will have to start tapering off production.

That possibility is a major reason why the government and drug makers are gearing for an all-out campaign to sell the public on the value of getting the vaccine shots.

The U.S. Public Health Service is preparing to use posters, radio, newspapers and community organizations to urge every American who can to get the vaccine shots as soon as they are available.

The Health Service says one shot of the vaccine is all that is recommended, and should provide at least 70 per cent protection against getting the Asiatic flu.

Bulganin Still Premier, Say Reds

LONDON (UP)—Moscow Radio made it plain today that Nikolai Bulganin is still premier and member of the Presidium of the Communist Party.

Moscow broadcast a Soviet Tass news agency report disclosing that Bulganin, President Klimenti Voroshilov and Communist Party leader Nikita Khrushchev sent messages of congratulations to North Korea today on the anniversary of its "liberation" from Japan.

Reports have been current in diplomatic circles for weeks that Bulganin was on his way out because he was reported to have sided with Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov in the recent Kremlin crisis.

Princess Anne Seven Years Old Today

LONDON (UP)—Princess Anne celebrated her 7th birthday today in the middle of a new where-will-she-go-to-school controversy

The Queen already has decided to send Anne's big brother Charles to Cheam, the old school where Prince Philip began his formal education in 1930.

"Pity," said Lord Altrincham who has recently gained fame as a critic of royal activities. "I am very sorry to hear it."

The outspoken young lord also suggested that Anne be given a more "democratic" schooling and go to state classes with children from all walks of life.

There appeared no chance that the critics would have their way, but some British papers suggested today that Anne might leave her palace lessons for classes in a private school.

The mischievous princess with her bouncing blonde curls celebrated today's birthday with a touch of sadness not brought on by the controversy over her schooling.

Charles leaves for his upper class boarding school next month and there will be no more giggling games of hide and seek through the red carpeted halls of the palace Anne and Charles call home.

There also will be no more regular family gatherings of the two children with the Queen and Prince

The birthday gathering around the family tea table at Balmoral Castle this afternoon and the remainder of their time together during this late summer holiday in Scotland will be the last long hours Anne and 8-year-old Charles will have together until Christmas.

Bone Marrow May Save Leukemia Sufferer

DARBY, Pa. (UP) —A little girl who was not expected to survive a case of acute leukemia was released from Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital today "appreciably improved" following a transplant of bone marrow from her twin sister.

In a guarded statement, physicians emphasized the improvement "is not to be construed as a cure for acute leukemia" but may mark the "first successful transplant of human bone marrow" if she makes eventual full recovery.

The girl is 20-month-old Laura MacDonald, of Drexel Hill, Pa. Because little hope was held for her survival when she was admitted in mid-June, "heroic measures were agreed upon when it was discovered that Laura's twin, Mary, had the same blood type as hers" the physicians said.

Laura underwent a "massive dose of total body irradiation" July 11 to "destroy the diseased marrow immediately before the transplant."

"The following day the children were taken to an operating room where marrow was drawn from Mary's shin bone and hip bone into syringes treated with anti-coagulants. This marrow was then injected into Laura's blood stream," the statement said.

Laura responded "steadily" and suffered no violent reaction. There followed an "encouraging improvement in the condition of her blood."

The physicians, who declined to be identified, issued this statement after the girl was released from the hospital:

"This possibly may be the first probable successful transplant of marrow from one twin to another with the preliminary use of new anti-leukemia medicines and irradiation, and there has been a favorable effect upon the leukemia, the end result of which will require a much longer period to evaluate.

"The present blood picture indicates Laura has at least a remission, which means the leukemia is no longer evident, but it does not mean the disease will not return.

"The present blood picture being what it is, following the amount of irradiation given to her, would indicate that her present normal cells are probably derived from the successful transplant of the twin's marrow."

Dying Too Costly

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — City authorities launched a drive today against the high cost of dying. Mayor Edwardo Bergalli named a special commission to study the possibility of establishing an economical municipal funeral service. The cheapest funeral in Buenos Aires costs about $100. Bergalli blamed the situation on "profiteers in these activities."

Pipe-Smoking Grandmother Is 100 Years Old

DAYTON, O. (UP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Brenner, a pipe-smoking great great grandmother who was born into slavery and worked in the fields as a five-year-old, observed her one hundredth birthday here yesterday.

She said she would spend the day "catching up on her rest."

Her earliest memories are of working as a slave on a farm near St. Mary's, Ky., and passing out apples to the soldiers as they went by on their way to the battles of the Civil War.

When released from bondage to her master, she stayed on for several years and continued in his service.

Her secret of long life is that "hard work never hurt anybody."

"Nor did a puff on a pipe," she added. "You can't get a good clay pipe these days, but I make mine do."

Aged Nun Plans to Defy Reds

SAN MARINO (UP) — Sister Veronica Serri, an 80-year-old nun, stood firmly today against plans to turn this smallest Communist nation in the world into a full-fledged Marxist state.

The aged but tough abbess of the 300-year-old Santa Chiara convent school is fighting the Communist-controlled Grand and General Council of the Republic of San Marino which announced it would turn the republic into a Marxist state.

Its aims included "democratization" of the government, nationalization of private property through a state lease system, eventual state ownership of industry and "closer diplomatic relations with the peoples democracies."

But then it attacked religious education. Secretary of State for Internal Affairs Domenico Morganti ordered the nuns to close their school and send their pupils to the state - run schools which teach the principles of Marxism.

She told Morganti from the hill-top abbey where she has taught since 1898 that she will carry the fight to the council itself and, if necessary, to the 15,000 inhabitants of the 30-square-mile republic.

Her school has been in operation since 1609 and it boasts that Sister Veronica's girls consistently outshine the girls of the state school in state exams to enter higher schools. Many of the wives of the top party bosses were taught by Sister Veronica.

Greek Student May Have Died From Asiatic Flu

NEW YORK (UP)—Asiatic flu was believed today to have caused the death of a 17-year-old Greek exchange student who arrived in this country Tuesday.

The student, Nicholas Memmos, who died Wednesday, may have been the first person to die in this country of the disease.

Dr Benjamin M. Vance, acting chief medical examiner, who performed an autopsy, said Memmos died of an influenza type of bronchial pneumonia — "one of the types" of Asiatic flu.

As nearly as you can pinpoint anything you could consider it Asiatic influenza," Vance said.

However, Dr. Morris Greenberg, director of the New York Health Department's Bureau of Preventable Diseases, said the cause of death could not be determined until after the completion of laboratory tests which will take about two weeks.

Organize for Erie 'Freeway'

SHARON, Pa. (UP)—Representatives of 10 Western Pennsylvania cities today announced formation of the Pittsburgh-Erie Freeway Assn. to push a citizens movement for an express highway linking the two major metropolitan centers.

The participants in the session agreed to accept results of an engineering survey to determine the best route for such a highway. Six representatives of each county involved scheduled a meeting for Aug. 26 to plan the association's program.

The cities represented Tuesday night at the formation of the association included: Erie, Meadville, Franklin, Oil City, Sharon, New Castle, Ellwood City, Beaver Falls, Rochester, and Pittsburgh.

Truman Involved In Auto Mishap

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Miss Willie Mae Dunn of Kansas City was given a ticket Wednesday for failure to yield the right of way. Police said the fact that the person who had the right of way was former President Truman made no difference.

Miss Dunn, 48, and Truman were driving south when the woman's car edged into the inner lane and hooked the left front fender of her car to the right rear bumper of Truman's vehicle.

Truman was a bit late for a lunch engagement, but otherwise didn't seem disturbed. Neither driver was hurt.

Nuclear Testing Postponed Again

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Unfavorable weather conditions again have forced the 17th postponement in the firing of a medium-sized nuclear device at the Nevada proving grounds.

The Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday postponed its Shasta test until Friday at 5 a.m. p.d.t. however, the AEC said if ind conditions fail to improve sufficiently to fire Shasta another device, dubbed Franklin Prime, would be triggered instead.

CHICAGO, (UP) — The Cook County dog catcher won't be able to miss the radio call number assigned to his new pickup wagon. It's K-9.

Ingrid's Daughter Sees Rossellini

ROME (UP)—Jenny Ann Lindstrom, Ingrid Bergman's teen-aged daughter, has fallen for a Rossellini, Roberto's 22-year-old nephew Franco, a Rome newspaper reported today.

The Momento Sera said Jenny Ann and Franco took a long boat trip together in the blue grotto in Capri last week.

They "were seen smiling and holding hands in the streets of Capri like any young couple in love."

The newspaper, carrying the story under a Paris dateline, quoted Jenny's father, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, as saying, "Another Italian and even worse another Rossellini," when he heard the news.

India Observes Independence

NEW DELHI (UP)—India celebrated its 10th independence day by carting away statues reminiscent of British rule and releasing some 15,000 convicts from civil and military prisons.

For most Indians, the observance also marked the 100th anniversary of the Indian mutiny, which is now regarded here as this country's "first war of independence."

The Mahasabha Party, an orthodox Hindu group, angrily boycotted the centennial celebration. Mahasabha leaders say it should have been held, May 10, date of the massacre at Meerut that touched off the mutiny.

Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, ignoring technicalities, told a crowd of 200,000 at a flag raising ceremony outside Delhi's historic Red Fort that today is a day of "special significance" in Indian history.

Nehru declared that India "wants friendship with all countries"—even Pakistan, with which this country has been continually at odds during its 10 years of independence.

Hiss Working For Comb Firm

Hiss served three years and eight months of a five-year term in Lewisburg Penitentiary, Pa., for perjury in denying he passed secret documents to a Communist spy ring.

Hiss began working for the comb firm early in June and is reported to like the job "very much."

Kim Novak Says She's in No Rush To Take Trip to Altar

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Kim Novak, young girl in a hurry in her career, says she is in no rush to get married.

"My heart hasn't settled down to one interest," said the 24-year-old movie actress, who currently is dangling two well-to-do males on a string. One is Mac Krim, 37, a West Coast builder and theater owner and her long - time escort. The other is Mario Bandini, 33, a tomato canner in Italy.

Miss Novak said there were no other men in her life although her name has been linked with several including Frank Sinatra. "Two are all a girl can handle at a time," said she.

Bandini, who reportedly will visit Miss Novak in Hollywood next December, had been called a count until the actress returned from a vacation in Italy to announce he isn't aristocracy.

"It embarrasses him," she said, in an interview at her hotel suite. "I think that count business started because I met him soon after Grace Kelly married Rainier. Everybody apparently wanted another royal romance."

"I get along great with the Italians," said the Chicago - born actress. "But I'm not engaged.

"I have thought a lot about marriage. . .I'm at the age when a girl wants a home and family. But I want to wait until I can give marriage some time. Right now, I'm too busy for much personal life."

The rise of the lavender blonde has been a rapid one — from modelling in Chicago, where she once was 'Miss Deepfreeze" for an appliance manufacturer's promotion, to her first speaking role in pictures three and one - half years ago.

Now she has reached stardom in her seventh film, Columbia's "Jeanne Eagels," just released, and "Pal Joey," completed but not yet on view. When she returns to the West Coast, it will be to co-star with Jimmy Stewart in two pictures, one directed by Alfred Hitchcock.

"The more I work, the more I can take," said the lavender tinted blonde. "But I guess I couldn't keep this pace the rest of my life.

"And I pull my own strings, no matter what you read about the studio setting out deliberately to mold a new star to replace Rita Hayworth. If they were going to do that, they'd have dyed my hair red."

The Novak determination to succeed shows throughout her conversation. . . and she's rarely at loss for words. She conceded that some of her co-workers charge her with displays of temperament these days.

"But look up the word," said she. "It means being sensitive. . . I hope to goodness I am. you have to be, if you are to succeed as an actress."

She said she isn't out to succeed either Rita, Marilyn or Jayne. "I'm not trying to be the epitome of sex," said the actress. "I don't work at it, that's what I mean. If people see 'em that way well . . but I'm trying to be me."

Pillsbury Plant Set for Greenville

GREENVILLE, Pa. (UP) — A 100,000 square foot plant will be constructed here by the Pillsbury Mills Inc., of Minneapolis.

The plant, designed to manufacture refrigerated dough products, is scheduled to begin operations next June.

Warren G. Harding was the first United States President to broadcast a radio speech.

Ohio Will 'Quit Fooling' with Water Polluters

COLUMBUS (UP) — The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board says it has "quit fooling around" with cities, villages and industries which continue to pour smelly waste into streams and lakes.

The call for action was made by Natural Resources Director Herbert Eagon. Other board members joined in with a chorus of "A-men!"

The board at a meeting Tuesday then promptly ordered four communities, a county and an industry to explain their alleged lack of progress in halting pollution.

Ordered to show cause why their permits to dump sewage into streams should not be cancelled, were Middleport and Pomeroy, in Meigs County; Lakeville in Ashtabula County, and Coal Grove in Lawrence County.

Also ordered to appear before the board were Cuyahoga County officials and the Stolle Corp. of Cincinnati, which has two plants at Sidney.

Lake Erie Pollution

All were called on the carpet for failing to do more about stopping pollution of Lake Erie and several Buckeye streams.

Three cities—Rocky River, Bay Village and Fairview — will have to come before the board next month to answer violation charges.

State Health Director Ralph Dwork, chairman of the board, said the "Clean Water" law went into effect in 1948 and most communities and industries have had "plenty of time" to take action on solving the problem.

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M Barber

CANNED SALMON is a boon too many a summer salad platter. This one features the solid-packed fish, potato salad, and asparagus bundles garnished with pimiento strips. Wedges of tomato and lemon make an appetizing decoration.

National Salmon Week Marks New Canned Product

Next week has been declared by interested parties as "National Canned Salmon Week." This fact may be as surprising to you as it was to Food Editors. It has been decided — and probably wisely — to make the date conform with the launching of the new pack of salmon, instead of with the Lenten season.

Edith Barber

Some years ago, when I visited the State of Washington at this season, the salmon were running and the canning plants were in full operation. I learned some interesting facts. One was the concern over the catch one year when, for some unknown reason, the flesh of the fish was almost white instead of the delicate pink we associate with salmon. We expect our salmon to be of this shade, although we like our tuna fish white.

The solid-packed salmon is appropriate for serving in large pieces masked with mayonnaise and surrounded by salad greens. We like the smaller pieces diced and combined with an almost equal amount of diced celery. Sprinkling with lemon juice before adding the mayonnaise gives this type of salad a piquant flavor. Or you may like to serve wedges of lemon on the side.

By the way, the California lemon crop this year is particularly plentiful and of good quality. We can be generous with our use of it in wedges or slices for garnishes and with the juice as an ingredient of cold drinks and sauces

STREAM AND SPRAY SALAD

2 cans salmon (½-pound each) drained
1 recipe potato salad (for 4)
Salad greens
1 can (1 pound) asparagus tips
½ lemon, cut in wedges
Pimiento strips
Tomato wedges

Place drained salmon on large salad platter. Put potato salad in salad greens and surround salmon with four bundles of asparagus. Tuck wedge of lemon in center of each asparagus bundle and garnish with strip of pimiento. Garnish with tomato wedges Yield: 4 servings.

CREAMED SALMON

Drain can of salmon and reserve liquor. Flake meat. Prepare 1½ cups cream sauce, using the liquor to replace part of the milk. Combine fish and sauce. Heat thoroughly and serve hot over toast or over toasted split English muffins. Grated cheese or thinly sliced olives may be added before reheating, if desired.

Beets Are Nutritionally Diet Foods

All people enjoy seasonable vegetables. Perhaps one should speak instead of local crops as, with modern methods of transportation, seasons overlap or are hardly noticeable in large markets.

It always seems as if the nearby vegetables that come to market so quickly give flavor sweeter and fresher than any others. Often, price is lower than at any other time of the year.

Beets, when freshly picked with greens attached, should be considered just now, for they can compete nutritionally with any of the other vegetables. While the beets themselves are fairly well endowed with minerals and vitamins, the young greens are near the top of the list when it comes to vitamin A, in which all green leaves are high.

When this vegetable is young and tender, the beets and tops may be cooked together, or may be cooked separately in a small amount of water. Usually the greens are chopped after cooking and dressed with butter or with hot French dressing. The butter may be flavored with lemon juice.

Tasty Recipes

MAINE POTATO SALAD

Boil or bake 8 medium potatoes. Cool and dice. Add 1 tablespoon finely minced onion. Mix lightly with old-fashioned mustard dressing diluted with a little cream. Season wth celery salt, salt, white pepper and paprika. Let stand in cool place 1 to 2 hours for flavors to blend. Garnish with chopped parsley, small boiled or pickled beets and hard-cooked eggs, one of which may be riced for garnishing. Yield: 6 servings.

SUMMER BEETS

Cut off tops about 2 inches above beets. Scrub and cook in boiling salted water to cover until tender. Allow about 20 minutes for small young beets. Drain, rinse in cold water, and rub off skins and roots. Serve whole, sliced, or diced with butter, lemon butter or vinaigrette sauce. Allow about 1-3 pound beets for each serving. One pound yields about 2 cups diced cooked beets.

Geneva President To Be Inaugurated

Dr Edwin Cameron Clarke will be inaugurated as the 15th president of Geneva College at ceremonies Saturday morning, Oct. 12, the school's faculty and board of trustees announced today.

Dr. Clarke became president last October succeeding Dr. Charles M. Lee. Main speaker at the inauguration will be Dr. John Dale Russell, former specialist in the Office of Education, Washington, D.C.

The term "squaw" refers to any Indian woman, whether married or single.

Frank O'Brien, clobbered by two-by-four.

"Stealing my husband," she claims.

NIX ON OVERTIME, BOSS IS GIVEN TO UNDERSTAND — After a husband's eight-hour work day is done, his place is in the home, decided Mrs. Virginia Scales. So she walked into the electronic shop of Frank O'Brien, where her husband works, and clobbered him with a two-by-four. "He's stealing my husband with overtime," she said.

New Secretary of Treasury Is No Stranger to High Finance

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP — When Robert B. Anderson graduated from the University of Texas at the age of 19, he applied for a job as high school math teacher in Burleson, Tex. The trustees hired him on condition that he also coach the football team.

Anderson had never played football and his knowledge of the sport was meager. But he bought a book of football rules and spent the summer studying it. That fall, his team went through the season undefeated.

Today, at 47, Anderson is using the same "cram course" technique of casing himself into a much bigger and tougher job as secretary of the Treasury.

Knows Finances Well

Anderon is not a stranger to high finance, as he was to football. He has had considerable experience in handling large sums of other people's money—as manager of the 300 million dollar Waggoner Estate in Texas, as deputy chairman of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank, as secretary of the Navy and deputy secretary of Defense, and for the past two years as president of Ventures, Ltd., a big Canadian mining and investment firm.

But Anderson, whose unaffected humility belies what they say about Texans, does not consider this background sufficient training for his new job. Ever since he learned in April that President Eisenhower wanted him to succeed George M. Humphrey as Treasury secretary, he has been boning up on the intricate problems of federal fiscal policy.

So far, he has worked his way through (1 about five feet of books, including most of the classic texts on such subjects as debt management and the operation of the federal reserve system; (2 more than 1,000 printed pages of Senate and House hearings; (3 scores of government reports and Treasury documents.

Still Doing Homework

Although he assumed active command of the Treasury July 29, Anderson is still plugging away at his self-assigned homework.

One of his first acts was to call in the Treasury's division heads, and ask for a detailed report from each of them on the "issues and problems" confronting his division. These confidential report from each of them on the "isquest, in the same kind of loose-leaf notebooks that students use, and are kept up to date with frequent inserts and substitutions.

Anderson keeps them in his desk drawer for ready reference, but he has already memorized most of their contents.

He has the kind of memory that is sometimes called photographic, and has trained himself to be an extremely rapid reader. One of his aides, who saw him flipping through the pages of a highly technical report, assumed that Anderson was merely pretending to read it. The aide was startled some days later to hear the secretary cite specific dates and figures from the report.

His Knowledge Incredible

Over the years, Anderson has stocked his retentive mind with an incredible variety of information. He learned one profession—law—in the usual way at college. Other subjects he has picked up along the way, in preparing himself for various jobs or just out of curiosity. He taught himself petroleum geology because the vast Waggoner ranch, which he managed for 11 years, had more than 2,000 oil wells. He mastered the fine points of submarine design, because he felt that a Texas landlubber should be able to talk the admirals' language when he became secretary of the Navy. He can hols hid own with experts in conversations about English poetry, cotton farming, Canadian mining, Texas politics anddtrapshooting.

"If we could get this guy on a television quiz program," one awed Treasury official said recently, "we would have the answer to the federal debt."

Since no TV program has yet come forward with a $270 billion question, Anderson probably will have to find some other answer. His most urgent problem right now is refinancing the 72 billion dollars worth of government bonds due to mature during the current fiscal year. The Treasury had to offer 4 per cent interest — highest rate since the 1930s—to ease its last big issue into the tight money market.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. Emiley Massey, who died one year ago today August 15, 1956.
Today is a day of remembrance
And many sad regrets;
A day we shall always remember
When the rest of the world forgets.
We sit here in the evening,
Often when we are alone,
Wishing, hoping and longing
If you could only come home.
A loving parent, so good and kind,
No one on earth like her we'll find.
For each of us she did her best,
May God grant her eternal rest.
Sadly missed by daughter and grandson.

Toll TV Viewed as 'Revolution' In Field of Mass Entertainment

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—Toll TV is not just a new twist in mass entertainment, it is a revolution.

It means that for the first time in history, you don't have to put your shoes on to become a paying customer of movies, sports or stage shows.

The previous concept of box office entertainment boiled down to this: The paying audience had to be moved to a theater or arena. That audience receptacle had to be centrally located, an expensive proposition. That receptacle could be used only periodically or even seasonally, also an expensive proposition.

Toll TV moves the entertainment to the paying audience. It puts a box office in the home. It is an electronic delivery service.

Right now, you see entertainment on TV free. Sponsors pay the bills. According to Harris, Upham and Co., a New York financial house, those sponsors spent about one billion dollars in 1956 on TV. However, not much of that sum went toward the creation of actual program content. Almost 900 million dollars, says Harris, Upham, went toward the purchase of program time, commercials and spot time.

Largest Audience Needed

Toll TV'ers say despite a sprinkling of quality shows on TV, the bread and butter of commercial TV must be pap—the sponsor must reach the largest possible audience for the smallest cost.

Furthermore, say toll TV'ers, TV costs are rocketing. The average half-hour situation comedy costs $35,000 to $40,000. Last season, the production budget for the Perry Como hour was $108,000, for Jackie Gleason about $102,000, for Sid Caesar about $115,000. How many sponsors can afford to carry this kind of a load?

Not many, say toll TV'ers. In 1956, for example, 25 per cent of TV's bill was paid for by 10 top firms.

What's more, say toll TV advocates, commercial TV has affected other entertainment industries—minor league baseball, fight clubs, the movies. Back in 1947, for example, movie theaters grossed more than $1,500,000,000; last year, the gross was $1,200,000,000.

Among the eight major movie studios, RKO is closed, Republic operates for the most part as a rental depot for TV films, and the six other companies all have been forced to swing heavily to TV film production.

Is This The Answer

Toll TV'ers say they have the answer. A picture like "Giant" (which needs about 10 million dollars to break even; could make back its investment in a single night if only half the TV homes (20,000,000) were willing to pay 50 cents a head. It could still be shown in theaters here and abroad and on TV again.

Would people be willing to pay? Well, the Alfred Politz research firm reports that 16 million people over 15 years of age would be willing to pay 50 cents for a first run feature or a Broadway play on TV.

Politz says six million people would pay $1 to see an opera; almost 20 million fans would pay $1 for a World Series game; 16 million buffs would pay $1 to watch a championship fight via toll TV.

MGM Studios Turning Out TV Commercials

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — MGM turns out super-collosal, slick movies in the Leo the lion tradition, but some these days are one-minute television commercials.

The biggest studio of them all is one of three major movie factories that have hustled the filmed TV commercial business away from New York.

MGM sound stages where famous epics, from "Raintree County" back to "Dinner at Eight" and "Grand Hotel" were shot, now feature such "scenes" as ladies putting on lipstick or opening refrigerator doors.

Though these movies are shorter than the three-hour epics, they are tougher to make, according to Virgil Ellsworth, production chief of the minute spectacles.

"They're worse than feature films," signed Ellsworth on a tour of MGM's busy new television unit.

"The timing is so difficult — 58 seconds exactly. And the scenes are much more critically viewed than a feature film. The sponsor studies everything so closely.

Some days the electricians spend as much as five hours just to properly light the close-up of a product so it will be shown to its best advantage.

Food scenes are big headaches. Soup has to be steaming beautifully, but if the shot isn't successful a new pot of soup has to be brewed.

"And often toast has to be sprayed with color to make it look like toast," Ellsworth added.

The talents that go into MGM feature movies, from the make-up wizards who powder Ava Gardner's nose to the designers of lavish sets, now also work on TV commercial.

Dancer Marc Platt and actors Billie Burke and Edward Everett Horton are among feature film performers who now emote over bowls of pancake flour.

An outdoor MGM set of Fifth Avenue was used in a cosmetic commercial; the set of a New England waterfront was the location for a cake mix spiel

"Just for one scene we had to fly a girl 70 feet through the air," enthused Ellsworth. "That took three days to shoot. They never could make commercials like that in New York. But we have all the MGM facilities for our use."

Janet Blair to Appear on TV This Sunday

Altoona's Janet Blair, who as an actress-singer has attained great success in television, stage and filmdom, is among the list of great headliners on "The Ed Sullivan Show" this Sunday from 8 to 9 p. m. EDT, over WFBG-TV, Altoona (Channel 10), and the CBS-TV network.

Both Janet Blair and comedy star Sue Carson are making return appearances by popular demand on the Sullivan show.

Cab Callaway, King of "Hi-de-Ho," will be another guest. Europe's greatest variety act, The Trio Molidors, will make a return engagement. Other guests of Ed Sullivan will be accordionist Dick Contino and from the world of sports, Ted Atkinson, Carey Middlecoff, Gil McDougald, Vic Seixas, Otto Graham and Bob Coosy.

Additional guests will be singer Connie Towers and the unusual acrobatic-knife-throwing team of Elizabeth and Collins

"The Ed Sullivan Show," is a regular Sunday night feature over WFBG-TV.

Ask for Hike in Airport Bus Fares

HARRISBURG (UP)—Airlines Transportation Co. has proposed a 10-cent increase in its limousine and bus fares between Pittsburgh and the Greater Pittsburgh Airport, starting Sept. 9.

The Public Utility Commission said the firm filed a new rate schedule requesting permission to raise the fare from $1.25 to $1.35 between downtown Pittsburgh and the airport, and from $1.90 to $2 between the Webster Hall Hotel and the University of Pittsburgh area.

The transit firm estimated the proposed fare increase would produce $22,300 additional revenue annually to offset losses and meet higher operating costs.

Child Who Stutters Needs Help at Home

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

When you hear the word "handicapped," you generally think of someone who has lost an arm or leg, or is blind. Obviously, these persons are handicapped, but there are other forms of handicaps, too.

And one of the largest groups of handicapped persons is composed of stutterers. Such famous men as the late King George VI and Winston Churchill were or are members of this group.

While stuttering has been a handicap through the ages — Moses and Aristotle also were stutterers — we have not yet found the underlying cause of the trouble. But we do know quite a bit about contributing factors and we are curing more and more victims.

Stuttering is much more prevalent in boys than in girls and usually begins between the ages of two and six as the child's speech develops.

We find that it runs in families and that twins are frequently afflicted. While stuttering usually lasts less than two seconds, most stutterers stammer about one word out of every ten spoken.

Usually a stutterer will wear an anxious expression when speaking, and well he might.

Overanxious parents who insist that the child speak slowly and distinctly are only making matters worse. In his effort to please, the stutterer will only stammer all the more.

You must realize that only in a very few cases do children "grow out of" this handicap. More often it becomes worse as the child grows older.

Prompt professional treatment is needed in the vast majority of cases. And that means you should see a speech pathologist.

It does not mean, however, that there is nothing you and your spouse can do to help. Indeed, proper atmosphere around the home means a great deal to a stutterer

For one thing, make sure the youngster gets the right kind of food in the right amounts. Stutterers need plenty of rest, too, so see that your youngster gets to bed earlier than usual if he is undergoing treatment for stammering.
